Car Production In U.S. Stopped By Studebaker

Move To Canada Economic Blow To South Bend

NEW YORK (AP) — Studebaker Corp., an automaker for 61 years, announced Monday a halt of car building at South Bend, Ind., site of 90 per cent of production operations.

However, Byers Burlingame, installed as company president in a management shakeup two weeks ago, said Studebaker will continue assemblies on a drastically reduced scale at a Canadian plant in Hamilton, Ont.

Heavy financial losses, aggravated by a poor reception for Studebaker's completely restyled 1964 line introduced in September, led to the decision.

The shutdown at South Bend will cut out jobs for an estimated 6,000 employes, including about 5,000 production line workers.

Immediate reaction was varied.

Phillip Welber, president of Robertson's, South Bend's largest downtown department store, said he was confident his business "will be okay." He said: "We've survived other economic shocks in this community before."

Kenneth M. Burch, executive vice president of the South Bend Chamber of Commerce, said: "It's going to be a very serious blow to the economy of our area. Fortunately, our other companies are doing well."

Precise effects on personnel and Studebaker's approximately 2,100 dealers in the United States were not altogether clear.

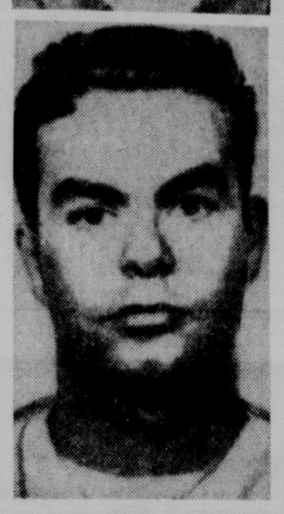

Burlingame assured the American car-buying public that a flow of service, parts and accessories for the one million Studebakers on the road will be maintained through U.S. and Canada sources.

The shift to Canada was described by Burlingame as a "realistic, practical" program for maintaining the 112-year-old Studebaker name in the automobile business.

The revamping of automobile operations, it was said, will have no effect on operations of Studebaker's other 12 divisions.

These branches of the company's activities, mostly added in a diversification program launched in 1958, include manufacture and sale of diesel generators, farm implements, refrigerators and numerous other products.

ARRESTED — Authorities yesterday arrested Joseph James Sorce (top), 23, and Thomas Patrick Keating (bottom), 21, in connection with the robbery of a bank in Sherman Oaks, Calif., early in November. The two men also had been sought for questioning about the kidnaping of Frank Sinatra Jr., from a motel at Stateline, Calif. Sorce, Keating and four other men were arrested at Strawberry Lodge, Calif., about 20 miles from where Sinatra was kidnaped. (AP Photofax)

Seven Indicted In Indianapolis Ice Show Blast

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A grand jury Monday indicted state fire marshal Ira Anderson and city Fire Chief Arnold W. Phillips and five others in the Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum explosion which killed 72 persons at a Halloween ice show.

Anderson was charged with failure to inspect the huge building before issuing a permit and for failure to inspect during the past year and remove liquid petroleum tanks thought responsible for the explosion.

Phillips was charged with failure to inspect within the last six-month period as required by law.

The other five persons indicted were charged with criminal charges of involuntary manslaughter.

House OKs Aid Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Monday passed a $3.6-billion foreign-aid authorization bill that includes authority for the President to extend controversial most-favored-nation status to Red Poland and Yugoslavia.

The measure, a compromise of the House and Senate versions, was approved 195-164. It goes now to the Senate for final action scheduled Tuesday.

But that is just the first half of the annual ritual by which Congress provides the funds for foreign aid. The authorization bill sets the ceiling figure. Still to come is the appropriation bill which provides the money, and this figure is expected to be much lower.

Portuguese Rebel Defies Arrest To Address U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Capt. Henrique Galvao dramatically defied a threat of arrest Monday and came to the United Nations to denounce the Portuguese government's policy in Africa.

The 68-year-old former army captain who led a band of rebels in hijacking the liner Santa Maria in 1961 arrived in New York by plane from Brazil to appear before the U.N. Assembly's trusteeship committee. Portugal served formal notice on the U.S. State Department that it sought Galvao's extradition.

Galvao told the committee he decided to risk being extradited because he felt compelled to state his views on the need for applying the right of self-determination to Angola, Mozambique and other Portuguese territories inAfrica.

He charged that Portugal's Premier Antonio Oliveira Salazar had instituted a policy of racism in Africa and added that there could be no change until Salazar is removed from power.

He declared this could not take place unless the United States Britain and France withdraw support from the Salazar regime.

His plane landed at 12:30 p.m., and at that precise time a representative of the Portuguese Embassy in Washington called at the U.S. State Department to formally request Galvao's extradition to Lisbon, Portugal.

He is wanted there in connection with a 22-year prison sentence imposed in absentia on on criminal charges stemming from the liner's seizure.

Probers Find No Evidence Of Sabotage

81 Killed When Plane Exploded, Fell Near Elkton

ELKTON, Md. (AP)—The nation's civil aviation chief said Monday that a jet airliner which crashed killing all 81 persons aboard cannot be reconstructed as is usually done.

"There is not enough left to reconstruct," said Alan S. Boyd, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

"We are hopeful to take some parts to Washington when they are removed from the ground where they are buried."

Standing near the field where the Boeing 707 fell to earth Sunday night after exploding in the air, Boyd told a news conference that the four-engine flight recorder had been found. But he raised the possibility it would prove of little value.

"It was so compacted there is no way to tell at this time whether we can derive any useful information from it," he said.

No Sabotage Indicated

The plane crashed during a thunderstorm, falling in fiery fragments about 15 miles southwest of Wilmington, Del. There were no survivors.

The recorder is an instrument package about the size of a small box camera. It records on aluminum tape a plane's speed and heading, the altitude and the velocity of vertical gusts of air.

In response to repeated questions, Boyd said there was nothing so far to indicate any sabotage.

Earlier in the day, a federal investigator expressed the certainty that the airliner exploded before it crashed, but did not rule out lightning or a bomb as the cause of the explosion.

"I am convinced that there was an explosion before it hit the ground," said Robert Allen, deputy director of safety for the Civil Aeronautics Board.

"What type it was I don't know. It could be decompression of the hull or rupture of fuel cells. Disintegration of this magnitude is hard to imagine."

Two Infants Aboard

Eight crewmen and 73 passengers—two of them infants—were aboard Flight 214 of Pan American World Airways, en route from Puerto Rico to Philadelphia.

Only a few minutes before the tragedy, about 65 passengers had left the plane during a stop in Baltimore.

"We knew there would be no survivors out of it, because it was just a ball of fire," said Mrs. Dean Wilmoth, who lives in the nearby village of Meadow View.

At a news conference in the Elkton firehouse, Allen was asked if there was any sign of a bombing.

"I would say not at this particular time, but we have not ruled out any possibility," he said.

"It was reported there was lightning activity at the time but whether or not this particular plane suffered a strike we cannot at this time tell."

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Sixteen bus passengers and a train engineer were killed Sunday in a collision on the Ankara-Izmir railway line, authorities reported Monday. Two bus passengers survived.

Jetliner Fragments Cover Disaster Scene

Federal and state officials pore over the scene where fragments of a Boeing 707 jet airliner drifted to earth Sunday night. The huge Pan American Airways liner exploded, caught fire and crashed as it headed for Philadelphia, killing all 81 aboard. Bits and pieces of wreckage litter the road and cornfield. A falling engine dug a crater at the edge of the road where firemen are clustered. In the background is the house of Raymond Gregg, 36, who witnessed the explosion. (AP Photofax)

Bolivia Miners Who Seized 21 Give Ultimatum

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Communist-led tin miners holding four U.S. citizens and 17 other persons hostage Monday demanded that the Bolivian government release two jailed Communist leaders by Tuesday or "suffer the consequences."

The ultimatum raised fears for the safety of the hostages in a deepening crisis that threatens armed conflict between government troops and the miner-followers of Vice President Juan Lechin, a leftist who has broken with President Victor Paz Estenssoro.

Five of Bolivia's 25 nationalized tin mines were reported in the hands of the anti-government miners. In the mining town of Eruro, 4,000 miners marched through the streets shouting "to the wall" (firing squad) with Paz Estenssoro.

The government concentrated 3,000 troops in the Oruro region, 30 miles north of Catavi, mining center where the Americans, three Canadians, a West German, a Dutch mine manager and a dozen Bolivian technicians were held.

(In Ottawa, Canada's Foreign Secretary Paul Martin told the House of Commons that a fourth Canadian, Robert Morrison of Ottawa, had been released after having been held among the hostages. Martin identified him as a geologist working with a United Nations technical assistance group.)

Lechin was reported to have set up headquarters at Catavi, 155 miles southeast of La Paz.

The miners defied the heavy troop buildup and a pledge to Bolivia from President Lyndon B. Johnson of full U.S. assistance in efforts to obtain the release of the hostages.

The miners did not spell out what they would do if the government did not release the two Communist leaders Tuesday.

Battlefield Money Finder Gets $49,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bundle of moldy money found last summer on the Gettysburg battlefield has a redeemable value of $49,000, the office of the U.S. Treasurer said Monday.

William T. Howell, deputy treasurer, said the money, which had a face value of $54,000, would be redeemed and a check mailed to the finder as soon as the Internal Revenue Service determines how much should be deducted for taxes.

George C. Rapport, 46, a high school teacher of Massapequa Park, N.Y., said he found the money last June 27 while touring the battlefield with his wife and two children, Eileen, 17, and Jack, 13.

Howell said it had been determined that the money was put into circulation in the late 1940's.

'Going Down In Flames'

Airliner's Epitaph Broadcast By Pilot

ELKTON, Md. (AP) — The crewman's voice was calm. In measured cadence it bore what the crewman must have known were his last words:

"Clipper 214 is going down in flames."

Clipper 214 was a Pan American Airways flight of that number bound for Philadelphia Sunday night. It broke up, caught fire and dripped flaming debris over a mile-square area north of here.

It was a giant Boeing 707 four-engine jet. It had stopped in Baltimore for 50 minutes on its way from Puerto Rico.

Eighty-one died over a muddy cornfield in the northeast corner of Maryland.

Paul Alexy said the voice over the plane radio was probably that of Capt. George Knuth of Huntington Station, N.Y., or that of the first officer, John R. Dale of Port Washington, N.Y.

Alexy, who was on the other end of the radio beam in the Philadelphia Airport control tower, said he couldn't tell.

Alexy, a matter-of-fact man of 44, was in the Elkton firehouse Monday when Federal Aviation Agency officials played a tape recording of 214's last radio broadcast.

It began with 214 calling Philadelphia: "Philadelphia approach, 214 holding over New Castle (Del.) . . .

Alexy replied, "214 hold west of New Castle . . . Philadelphia overcast . . . five aircraft have elected to hold until winds pass. You elect to hold until squall line passes.

214: Yes, elect to hold.

Alexy then gave the Pan Am liner holding instructions and a flight pattern. He began doing the same for other planes hovering in the rain above Pennsylvania.

214: We're ready to start an approach.

Alexy told 214 to hold his flight pattern. He said he would give landing instructions in a few minutes.

214: Roger, no hurry. Just wanted to know we'll accept clearance.

Alexy's dead pan voice then informed other flights of severe turbulence over the area. He followed with a weather report; rain up to six miles altitude. Alexy was talking to a National Airlines flight:

"How is the turbulence in your area, NA16?"

Then a voice broke in relaying its message as if reporting nothing more serious than a windshield wiper on the blink:

"Clipper 214 out of control . . . Here we go."

Alexy: Clipper 214 did you call Philadelphia?

214: Clipper 214 is going down in flames.

Alexy: Clipper 214, Roger, message has been received.

The recording stopped. Newsmen asked Alexy what he had done next.

"After receiving the call," he said, "I instructed the controller to contact New Castle and have it cleared of all aircraft below 5,000 feet."

"The reason being of course that Pan Am 214 was out of control at that altitude," he said.

Elimination Of Dyna-Soar Project Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department Monday night was reported ready to kill the Dyna-Soar, the only manned spacecraft currently under development in the Air Force.

Neither the White House nor the Defense Department would comment on the report. But President Johnson was understood to have concurred in Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's proposal to eliminate any new funds for the manned orbital vehicle in the budget which goes to Congress in January.

Elimination of the project would be one of several steps being taken to hold next year's defense spending in the neighborhood of this year's, which will run between $50 billion and $51 billion.

First information on the Dyna-Soar decision was reported in the Missile-Space Daily Edition which will reach subscribers Tuesday.

At the same time, America Aviation Daily, published by the same firm as Missile-Space Daily, reported that no new money would be provided in next year's budget for the Air Force's controversial RS70 experimental plane.

Artillery To Get Nuclear Shells

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has added to its war arsenal the world's smallest known nuclear weapon, a six-inch shell for tactical use on battlefields around the globe.

The Defense Department announced Monday that Army and Marine Corps ground forces will be equipped with the new weapon in the near future. It will be fired from the standard 155 mm. howitzer cannon, with a range of eight to 10 miles.

Although its explosive force was not disclosed, the new projectile presumably will pack a punch in the sub-kiloton range, or considerably less than 1,000 tons of TNT.

Assassination Report Relayed To Commission

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A formal FBI report establishing beyond doubt that Lee Harvey Oswald assassinated President Kennedy was sent to the Warren commission Monday night.

The report, it was learned, concludes that Oswald acted alone and unaided. Shreds of his clothing were said to have been found on the high-powered rifle used to kill Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., on Nov. 22, and his fingerprints on the paper in which the gun had been wrapped.

The Justice Department sent the FBI report directly to the seven-member commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, that has begun a final, high-level investigation of the tragedy.

The report did not go first to President Johnson, as had been predicted earlier. Johnson appointed the commission to determine the facts of the assassination and to report to him, the American people and the world.

The Justice Department's announcement said the FBI's investigation is continuing and further facts uncovered will be reported to the commission. The blue ribbon panel was set up by Johnson last week.

Public Works Fund Bill Clears Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Monday passed by voice vote a $4.5 billion public works money bill after defeating GOP efforts to slash funds earmarked for the pump-priming accelerated works program.

The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference committee where negotiators will have the task of reaching a compromise with a $4.27 billion measure passed earlier by the House.

The annual works measure carries funds for rivers and harbors, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Atomic Energy Commission and various other government agencies to carry out projects in all 50 states.

House Rights Action Drive Slows Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—A drive to obtain signatures of 218 House members on a petition to force civil rights action swept quickly past the 100 mark Monday then slowed down to a walk.

The results in the first few hours after the noon filing of the discharge petition were not unexpected. Backers of the civil rights legislation sponsoring the petition believe they will have done well to obtain as many as 160 signatures when the present session of Congress adjourns late this month.

Kidnap Hunt Nets Accused Bank Robbers

Arrested Gunmen, Four Others Held Only In Holdup Case

STATELINE, Nev. (AP)—Two suspected bank robbers were captured late Monday during a manhunt in the snowswept Lake Tahoe resort area for two men suspected of kidnaping Frank Sinatra Jr., son of the famed entertainer.

The whereabouts of the 19-year-old night club singer remained a mystery. But an FBI agent said the two arrested gunmen, as well as four others seized with them, were held specifically in the bank holdup case. There was no reported link with Sinatra's disappearance.

Meanwhile, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy telephoned from Washington and assured Frank Sinatra Sr. that all resources of the Justice Department would work on his missing son's case. Sinatra Sr. flew to Reno from Palm Springs, Calif., to be near the hunt scene.

The six men arrested were found in the Strawberry Lodge area, 20 miles west of the resort where young Sinatra was reported seized Sunday night.

Kidnap Witness Views Pair

FBI agents and sheriff's officers identified two of the six as Joseph James Sorce, 23, of Oakland, and Thomas Patrick Keating, of Riverside, Calif., wanted for an $8,500 holdup last month of a bank at Sherman Oaks, Calif. The other four were booked on charges of harboring Sorce and Keating.

Sorce and Keating were viewed in a lineup by John Foss, who said he was in the room with Sinatra Jr. when the young singer was seized Sunday night just as he was about to go on stage at Harrah's Tahoe Casino. They also were viewed by Sinatra Jr.'s manager, Tino Barzie.

It was after this viewing that FBI agent Curtis O. Lynum said Sorce, Keating and the other four were being held specifically for the bank holdup.

Foss said the younger Sinatra, who is 19, was seized by two men who burst into their motel room and demanded: "Where's your money?" He said Sinatra had been called on the telephone in the room an hour earlier.

No Ransom Demanded

Officers reported no word of any ransom demand since the two gunmen hustled the young singer into the storm and left Foss bound and gagged on the floor.

Tino Barzie, manager of young Sinatra and the band with whom he was singing, said he had been authorized by Frank Sinatra Sr. to stand by at Harrah's South Lodge, scene of the abduction, for any contact word from the kidnapers.

The elder Sinatra flew from Palm Springs, Calif., to Reno as soon as he was flashed the word of his son's abduction. He went into seclusion at the Mapes Hotel in Reno and kept in touch with developments from there.

Sinatra Sr. announced three months ago he was divesting himself of Nevada gambling interests estimated to be worth about $3.5 million.

He pulled out after the Nevada Gaming Control Board accused him of violating state regulations by entertaining Sam Giancana, a Chicago underworld figure, at Sinatra's Cal-Neva Lodge. The Cal-Neva is on Lake Tahoe's north shore in Nevada.

Johnson Presses Drive For Economy In Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson pressed anew Monday his search for ways to make significant cuts in the massive U.S. defense budget without endangering national security.

In other actions taken during another conference-filled day Johnson also:

—Told Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall that he wants Udall's department to assume responsibility for U.S. oil policies.

Johnson is from Texas, the nation's top oil-producing state, and it appears he is determined to counter any suggestions that his state ties might influence national policies in oil.

—Met with five leaders of the National Council of Churches and told them he is proud of that organization's adoption of a resolution calling for passage of the administration-backed civil rights bill.

Bishop Reuben H. Mueller of Indianapolis, the Council president, said the churchmen assured Johnson "we are going to concentrate on this matter." Mueller is a bishop of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

—Sent word to newly independent Zanzibar that the United States "has watched with great interest and satisfaction as the tide of freedom has rolled across the African continent."

Johnson spent 90 minutes discussing defense spending with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Alexy then gave the Pan Am liner holding instructions and a flight pattern. He began doing the same for other planes hovering in the rain above Pennsylvania.

214: We're ready to start an approach.

Alexy told 214 to hold his flight pattern. He said he would give landing instructions in a few minutes.

214: Roger, no hurry. Just wanted to know we'll accept clearance.

Alexy's dead pan voice then informed other flights of severe turbulence over the area. He followed with a weather report; rain up to six miles altitude. Alexy was talking to a National Airlines flight:

"How is the turbulence in your area, NA16?"

Then a voice broke in relaying its message as if reporting nothing more serious than a windshield wiper on the blink:

"Clipper 214 out of control . . . Here we go."

Alexy: Clipper 214 did you call Philadelphia?

214: Clipper 214 is going down in flames.

Alexy: Clipper 214, Roger, message has been received.

The recording stopped. Newsmen asked Alexy what he had done next.

"After receiving the call," he said, "I instructed the controller to contact New Castle and have it cleared of all aircraft below 5,000 feet."

"The reason being of course that Pan Am 214 was out of control at that altitude," he said.

Assassination Report Relayed To Commission

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A formal FBI report establishing beyond doubt that Lee Harvey Oswald assassinated President Kennedy was sent to the Warren commission Monday night.

The report, it was learned, concludes that Oswald acted alone and unaided. Shreds of his clothing were said to have been found on the high-powered rifle used to kill Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., on Nov. 22, and his fingerprints on the paper in which the gun had been wrapped.

The Justice Department sent the FBI report directly to the seven-member commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, that has begun a final, high-level investigation of the tragedy.

The report did not go first to President Johnson, as had been predicted earlier. Johnson appointed the commission to determine the facts of the assassination and to report to him, the American people and the world.

The Justice Department's announcement said the FBI's investigation is continuing and further facts uncovered will be reported to the commission. The blue ribbon panel was set up by Johnson last week.

Seven Indicted In Indianapolis Ice Show Blast

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A grand jury Monday indicted state fire marshal Ira Anderson and city Fire Chief Arnold W. Phillips and five others in the Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum explosion which killed 72 persons at a Halloween ice show.

Anderson was charged with failure to inspect the huge building before issuing a permit and for failure to inspect during the past year and remove liquid petroleum tanks thought responsible for the explosion.

Phillips was charged with failure to inspect within the last six-month period as required by law.

The other five persons indicted were charged with criminal charges of involuntary manslaughter.

House OKs Aid Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Monday passed a $3.6-billion foreign-aid authorization bill that includes authority for the President to extend controversial most-favored-nation status to Red Poland and Yugoslavia.

The measure, a compromise of the House and Senate versions, was approved 195-164. It goes now to the Senate for final action scheduled Tuesday.

But that is just the first half of the annual ritual by which Congress provides the funds for foreign aid. The authorization bill sets the ceiling figure. Still to come is the appropriation bill which provides the money, and this figure is expected to be much lower.

Ikeda Renamed

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japanese Diet named conservative, pro-American Hayato Ikeda as prime minister Monday for the third time.

Portuguese Rebel Defies Arrest To Address U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Capt. Henrique Galvao dramatically defied a threat of arrest Monday and came to the United Nations to denounce the Portuguese government's policy in Africa.

The 68-year-old former army captain who led a band of rebels in hijacking the liner Santa Maria in 1961 arrived in New York by plane from Brazil to appear before the U.N. Assembly's trusteeship committee. Portugal served formal notice on the U.S. State Department that it sought Galvao's extradition.

Galvao told the committee he decided to risk being extradited because he felt compelled to state his views on the need for applying the right of self-determination to Angola, Mozambique and other Portuguese territories inAfrica.

He charged that Portugal's Premier Antonio Oliveira Salazar had instituted a policy of racism in Africa and added that there could be no change until Salazar is removed from power.

He declared this could not take place unless the United States Britain and France withdraw support from the Salazar regime.

His plane landed at 12:30 p.m., and at that precise time a representative of the Portuguese Embassy in Washington called at the U.S. State Department to formally request Galvao's extradition to Lisbon, Portugal.

He is wanted there in connection with a 22-year prison sentence imposed in absentia on on criminal charges stemming from the liner's seizure.

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Sixteen bus passengers and a train engineer were killed Sunday in a collision on the Ankara-Izmir railway line, authorities reported Monday. Two bus passengers survived.

Battlefield Money Finder Gets $49,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bundle of moldy money found last summer on the Gettysburg battlefield has a redeemable value of $49,000, the office of the U.S. Treasurer said Monday.

William T. Howell, deputy treasurer, said the money, which had a face value of $54,000, would be redeemed and a check mailed to the finder as soon as the Internal Revenue Service determines how much should be deducted for taxes.

George C. Rapport, 46, a high school teacher of Massapequa Park, N.Y., said he found the money last June 27 while touring the battlefield with his wife and two children, Eileen, 17, and Jack, 13.

Howell said it had been determined that the money was put into circulation in the late 1940's.

Elimination Of Dyna-Soar Project Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department Monday night was reported ready to kill the Dyna-Soar, the only manned spacecraft currently under development in the Air Force.

Neither the White House nor the Defense Department would comment on the report. But President Johnson was understood to have concurred in Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's proposal to eliminate any new funds for the manned orbital vehicle in the budget which goes to Congress in January.

Elimination of the project would be one of several steps being taken to hold next year's defense spending in the neighborhood of this year's, which will run between $50 billion and $51 billion.

First information on the Dyna-Soar decision was reported in the Missile-Space Daily Edition which will reach subscribers Tuesday.

At the same time, America Aviation Daily, published by the same firm as Missile-Space Daily, reported that no new money would be provided in next year's budget for the Air Force's controversial RS70 experimental plane.

Artillery To Get Nuclear Shells

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has added to its war arsenal the world's smallest known nuclear weapon, a six-inch shell for tactical use on battlefields around the globe.

The Defense Department announced Monday that Army and Marine Corps ground forces will be equipped with the new weapon in the near future. It will be fired from the standard 155 mm. howitzer cannon, with a range of eight to 10 miles.

Although its explosive force was not disclosed, the new projectile presumably will pack a punch in the sub-kiloton range, or considerably less than 1,000 tons of TNT.

House Rights Action Drive Slows Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—A drive to obtain signatures of 218 House members on a petition to force civil rights action swept quickly past the 100 mark Monday then slowed down to a walk.

The results in the first few hours after the noon filing of the discharge petition were not unexpected. Backers of the civil rights legislation sponsoring the petition believe they will have done well to obtain as many as 160 signatures when the present session of Congress adjourns late this month.

Public Works Fund Bill Clears Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Monday passed by voice vote a $4.5 billion public works money bill after defeating GOP efforts to slash funds earmarked for the pump-priming accelerated works program.

The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference committee where negotiators will have the task of reaching a compromise with a $4.27 billion measure passed earlier by the House.

The annual works measure carries funds for rivers and harbors, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Atomic Energy Commission and various other government agencies to carry out projects in all 50 states.

Johnson Presses Drive For Economy In Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson pressed anew Monday his search for ways to make significant cuts in the massive U.S. defense budget without endangering national security.

In other actions taken during another conference-filled day Johnson also:

—Told Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall that he wants Udall's department to assume responsibility for U.S. oil policies.

Johnson is from Texas, the nation's top oil-producing state, and it appears he is determined to counter any suggestions that his state ties might influence national policies in oil.

—Met with five leaders of the National Council of Churches and told them he is proud of that organization's adoption of a resolution calling for passage of the administration-backed civil rights bill.

Bishop Reuben H. Mueller of Indianapolis, the Council president, said the churchmen assured Johnson "we are going to concentrate on this matter." Mueller is a bishop of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

—Sent word to newly independent Zanzibar that the United States "has watched with great interest and satisfaction as the tide of freedom has rolled across the African continent."

Johnson spent 90 minutes discussing defense spending with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

'K' Outlines Fertilizer Crash Program

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev promised on Monday to fulfill the Soviet people's dreams of more food and consumer goods by pouring enormous investments into the chemical industry.

Khrushchev assured hard-pressed Russians that the decades of deprivation necessary for building heavy industry are at an end and the time has come to satisfy the needs of the people.

He announced plans for sinking more than $46.6 billion into developing the chemical industry under a new seven-year plan. Major attention will be given to chemical fertilizer for faltering agriculture.

He told a plenary meeting of the Communist party's Central Committee the vast program would be carried out on a scale "unprecedented in world practice."

On the agenda was this one vital item—how to boost the chemical industry and put more fertilizers into the Soviet earth and more consumer goods into Soviet homes.

The premier conceded that the Soviet Union would have to seek much of the equipment and knowhow for the new chemical complex in the West. But he warned Western businessmen against trying to squeeze "fabulous profits" out of the Soviet Union.

"We shall place orders with those who want to make an honest profit, provided there are credits, because this has become the norm of economic relations," he said.

He lashed out at "the malicious fever that has gripped our enemies" following this year's catastrophic crop failure. He denounced "the most reactionary and embittered enemies of socialism" as former German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer" and the like.

Four Children Perish As Fire Levels Home

LA PLATA, Md. (AP) — A house fire killed four sleeping children Monday as their parents were away at work, the Charles County sheriff said.

The cause of the fire was not immediately discovered, Sheriff Francis C. Garner said, but firemen suspected a small gas stove.

The children, ranging in ages from 4 to 8, were found in the ruins of their one-story home near here. Their bodies were taken to the Baltimore City Morgue for autopsy.

Sheriff Garner said the children's father, David Boone, 27, is a civilian employe at Andrews Air Force Base. The mother, Julia, 24, is a Washington cab driver. Both were at work when the fire started.

Pan Am Record Good

NEW YORK (AP) — The jet airliner crash near Elkton, Md., was the first fatal accident involving a Pan American World Airways plane since 1957, the airline said Monday.

A Boeing 377 Stratocruiser propeller plane with 44 persons aboard went down in the Pacific on Nov. 8, 1957, on a flight between San Francisco and Honolulu. There were no survivors.

Court Clears Track For B&O, C&O Merger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court cleared the track Monday for the merger of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway with the Baltimore & Ohio.

Without comment, the court affirmed a ruling in favor of the consolidation handed down by a three-judge panel in Detroit last Aug. 13. This eliminated the last legal obstacle to approval of the merger — first given by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) in 1962.

Five railway unions had appealed to the Supreme Court to hold hearings on grounds that the ICC did not give proper consideration to the rights of workers involved. A lower court has been protecting the job rights of those involved during the appeal proceedings.

Another argument in the case was that the ICC had gone beyond the scope of authority given it by Congress. The Justice Department at one time had sided with the unions in their protest but later withdrew when a special government study indicated that the public would benefit from the C&O and B&O merger.

Wintry Storms Buffet Nation

By United Press International

Wintry storms buffeted the nation Monday from the Pacific Northwest to northern Dixie, dumping snow 16 inches deep in the northern Rockies and up to 38 inches deep in mountainous sections of Virginia.

Gusty winds accompanied the arctic blast in many areas.

Heavy snow warnings were up from northeastern Ohio to New York State.

Missing Yawl Found Near Bay Bridge

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 40-foot yawl reported missing with four persons aboard was found Monday by a Coast Guard vessel near the Chesapeake Bay bridge.

A search for the craft was started earlier in the day for the motor-sailboat Salee, reported missing after leaving Chesapeake City, Md., Sunday afternoon.

Aboard the vessel, the Coast Guard were Mr. and Mrs. Clark Cameron, their infant child, and Dr. Thomas Harvey, believed to be from the Baltimore or Annapolis area.

Coast Guard officials said the vessel had been anchored during bad weather and was reported missing when it failed to arrive Sunday night at Annapolis.

Film Censoring Law Challenged

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Arguments will be presented before the Court of Appeals Tuesday on a suit challenging the constitutionality of Maryland's 47-year-old film censorship law.

An assistant attorney general, Robert F. Sweeney, says the case is the first test of the law's constitutionality before the high court.

It is an appeal by Robert L. Freedman, a Baltimore theater owner, of his conviction on a charge of refusing to submit a film to the censor board for prescreening approval and licensing.

At the time he defied the board, Freedman said he was doing so to challenge the law. He contends the definitions and standards of the law, which are interpreted by the three-member censor board, are so vague as to be unconstitutional.

The law permits the board to ban films or parts of films it considers obscene or tending to "debase or corrupt morals" or "incite crime."

New Trial Time Limit Extension Urged

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Giles-Johnson Defense Committee has asked a Court of Appeals committee to recommend extending the three-day time limit to two years on motions for a new trial.

The defense committee was formed to aid three Negroes who are now serving life sentences for rape. The defense committee made the request in a letter to the court.

Judge John B. Gray Jr., chairman of the court's committee on rules and procedure, referred the request to a subcommittee. Judge Gray said a similar request had been made by a Baltimore lawyer.

Hal Witt, a Washington lawyer, said the defense committee would petition the Montgomery County Circuit Court by Jan. 1 to set aside the Giles-Johnson conviction and to grant a new trial.

The petition will be based on charges that new evidence has been discovered and the present three-day limit is unfair, Witt said.

The three defendants, John G. Giles, 23; James V. Giles, 21, and Joseph E. Johnson Jr., all of Spencerville, were sentenced to death for attacking a 16-year-old white girl in a wooded area in Montgomry County in July, 1961.

Gov. Tawes commuted the sentence to life imprisonment, but the defense committee argued that new evidence shows the innocence of the trio and warrants their release.

Baltimore Down To 924,000

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore's population dropped to an estimated 924,000 persons during the 12-month period ending last July 1, the city's health department said Monday.

The department said the figure showed a population decline of 8,000 persons during the period.

Kennedy Name Proposed For City Thruway

The Mayor and Council yesterday formally requested the Maryland State Roads Commission to change the name of the Cumberland Thruway to the "John F. Kennedy Thruway."

This followed last week's suggestion made by Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill.

Council instructed City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen to write the SRC requesting the change in name for the crosstown expressway.

In other action yesterday:

Council received a petition with 78 signatures opposing location of a Union Rescue Mission in the Queen City pavement area.

Approved was the recommendation of City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum that city-owned Lot 50 in Hewitt's Addition be deeded to the Allegany County Board of Education so that adequate approaches to the new South End junior high school can be provided.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of county public schools, wrote council that it is planned to use New Hampshire and Massachusetts avenues mainly but that Massachusetts deadends Kentucky Avenue. However, this could be extended to the proposed site if the lot could be acquired.

Mr. Nuzum said he had met with Mr. Webster and the school architect and it was agreed the cut-through would be to city specifications with the Engineering Department furnishing grade so that it would connect into existing streets.

The matter was referred to Mr. Nuzum and Mr. McMullen with power to act.

Council also received a letter from John A. Moberly, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, in which he praised cooperation received by the hospital from city employes in connection with obtaining federal funds for the new hospital addition: the new parking lot; and the training and instruction of hospital employes by the Fire Department.

Mentioned in Moberly's letter were Comptroller Paul E. Rodecap, Mr. Nuzum; Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney, Lt. Gordon Hite; Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, Assistant Chief Vincent Wegman and Inspector John Trost.

Kennedy Name Proposed For City Thruway

The Mayor and Council yesterday formally requested the Maryland State Roads Commission to change the name of the Cumberland Thruway to the "John F. Kennedy Thruway."

This followed last week's suggestion made by Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill.

Council instructed City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen to write the SRC requesting the change in name for the crosstown expressway.

In other action yesterday:

Council received a petition with 78 signatures opposing location of a Union Rescue Mission in the Queen City pavement area.

Approved was the recommendation of City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum that city-owned Lot 50 in Hewitt's Addition be deeded to the Allegany County Board of Education so that adequate approaches to the new South End junior high school can be provided.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of county public schools, wrote council that it is planned to use New Hampshire and Massachusetts avenues mainly but that Massachusetts deadends Kentucky Avenue. However, this could be extended to the proposed site if the lot could be acquired.

Mr. Nuzum said he had met with Mr. Webster and the school architect and it was agreed the cut-through would be to city specifications with the Engineering Department furnishing grade so that it would connect into existing streets.

The matter was referred to Mr. Nuzum and Mr. McMullen with power to act.

Council also received a letter from John A. Moberly, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, in which he praised cooperation received by the hospital from city employes in connection with obtaining federal funds for the new hospital addition: the new parking lot; and the training and instruction of hospital employes by the Fire Department.

Nurses Alumni Party

The Nurses Alumni of Sacred Heart Hospital will hold its annual Christmas party, tomorrow. It will be at 8 o'clock, in the Bellevue Street nurses home.

LaSalle High School Orchestra will present the program. There also will be a visit by Santa, to distribute gifts and jingles will be exchanged.

It will be a social with no business session, until January 8, the regular date.

Guild To Have Program Luncheon

A Christmas table, bake sale, and three part program by a group of the speech and drama department of Frostburg State College will feature the Christmas meeting of the Guild of Emmanuel Episcopal Church today. The luncheon will be at 12:15, in the parish house.

The program will be presented in the church, since one of the numbers will be the temptation scene from, "Murder in the Cathedral" by T. S. Eliot. Taking part are David Davis, Elliott Weiner, Vincent Clews, Henry Heller and Albert Rossi. "For the Time Being," by W. H. Auden will be given by Kay Loveless and Donald Smith will recite, "The Boy Who Laughed at Santa Claus," by Ogden Nash. The program is under the direction of Miss Dorothy Stone White, member of the speech and drama department and director of The Little Theatre.

Cedarettes Party Friday

The Cedarettes Christmas celebration for husbands, will be held Friday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

Dinner will be served at 6:30, followed by special entertainment. A jingle party will conclude the evening.

Reservations are to be made by today with Mrs. Eleanor Cook, 722-5828.

Social Chart

The Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW will hold a jingle party tonight at 8 at the post home.

Veterans of World War I Auxiliary in conjunction with Barracks, 1125, will hold a covered dish dinner at 6 p.m., tomorrow at the VFW home. All auxiliary members are asked to bring a covered dish. Both organizations will hold meetings at 8, followed by a jingle party.

DeMolay Mothers will meet at 8 tomorrow for a Christmas party.

PE Employes Dinner-Dance To Be Held December 20

The Potomac Edison Company's Employees Association will entertain the employes at a dinner-dance, December 20, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Each employe is entitled to bring one guest. It will be informal, with the dinner being served at 7. The guests are given a choice, either seafood platter, or prime rib roast.

The dance will be from 9 until 1 with music being furnished by Tommy Smithem's Orchestra.

Entertainment will be featured between the dinner and the dance for a half hour show. J. Fred Rowe of the engineering department, designed and drew the posters announcing the affair.

The officers of the association are G. William Baker, general chairman; Albert Bingman, vice-chairman; Mrs. Jean Little, treasurer, and Miss Joann Geary, treasurer.

William Eady, William Northcraft and Mrs. Elizabeth Tate are co-chairmen of the program committee.

Pleasant Grove Club Meets

A demonstration on "Good Design for a Price" was given by Miss Mary Wise at the meeting of the Pleasant Grove Homemakers, at the home of Mrs. Emma Hinkle. Mrs. Hattie Connor presided. Miss Wise showed a pair of pictures she made from dried leaves and flowers. She also announced the Christmas tea to be held December 12 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church from 2 until 4.

Following the singing of "Now Thank We All Our God," Mrs. Rhoda Clingerman conducted devotions on the theme of the hymn, "For the Beauty of the Earth." The new by-laws were read and copies distributed. A note of thanks was read from Mrs. Cora Parleton.

The December meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Nettie Perrin when jingles will be exchanged. The program committee consists of Mrs. Clingerman, Mrs. Dorothy Norris and Mrs. Evelyn Wilson. Concluding the meeting, "Lily of the Valley" was sung by Mrs. Hinkle, Mrs. Olive Northcraft and Mrs. Perrin. Others attending were Mrs. Dorothy Norris, Mrs. Vallie Michael, Mrs. Evelyn Wilson and Miss Dorothy Northcraft.

Lionettes Will Meet

The LaVale Lionettes will make bedroom slippers for patients at the hospitals at the meeting to be held Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Mary Seiler, Weires Avenue.

Concluding the meeting, jingles will be exchanged. At the last meeting Mrs. Mabel Morevac won the prize. Mrs. Pauline Otto and Mrs. Morevac were hostesses.

Sodality Will See Europe

The annual reception of new members of the Sodality of the Blessed Mother in St. Patrick's Church will be held tomorrow at 7:30.

A Christmas party will follow in the social center, at which time, Rev. John U. Lyness, spiritual director, will show slides of his recent trip to Europe.

Miss Sheila Downey is chairman of arrangements. She is being assisted by Mrs. Samuel Nightengale and Mrs. Donald Knieriem.

Century Club To Have Holiday Program

A showing of holiday fashions and musical program will replace the regular meeting of LaVale Century Club today at the Methodist Church. Mrs. Miles Thompson, Jr., will be commentator for the show by Martins, with Mrs. William Leeson accompanist.

Mrs. Ivan Hall and Mrs. Kenneth Wolf will play several Christmas piano duets, and Mrs. R. E. Steeper a flute solo with Mrs. Wolf at the piano.

Members are to bring canned goods and a cash donation for welfare baskets.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Bert Mason, Mrs. George Conway, Mrs. Peter Falce, Mrs. Kendrick Hodgdon, Mrs. Robert Huck, Mrs. Donald Long, Mrs. Louis Mould, Mrs. C. M. Sanner and Mrs. James Warden.

Spring Gap Postpones Luncheon

Because of New Year's Day, the Spring Gap Homemakers Club annual covered dish luncheon has been postponed until January 8. It will be at Mt. Tabor Church.

The decision was made at the meeting held at the home of Mrs. Herbert Howard. Roll call was answered with "A thought for the Christmas season." Reports were submitted by all officers. Members were urged to attend the County Council Christmas Fiesta, Thursday in St. Paul's Lutheran Church fellowship hall. Members volunteered to help with Christmas baskets for the shut-ins of the community.

A jingle party was held under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Steger, Mrs. Donald Monnett and Mrs. James Taschenberger. Games were played and jingles exchanged. Mrs. Herbert Howard, and Mrs. William McKenzie were hostesses.

Others present were Mrs. Merlin Barb, Mrs. Grace Burns, Mrs. Paul Couter, Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Chester Delawder, Mrs. John Emerick, Mrs. George McGregor, Mrs. Pearl Twigg, Miss Alma Taschenberger, Mrs. Walter Taschenberger, Mrs. Norma Twigg, Mrs. Leonard Miller, Mrs. Norman Monnett, Mrs. Lester Mullenax, Mrs. Grant Hicks, Mrs. Golda Riley and a guest, Joann Steger.

Young Teen Worries About Her Future Figure

"My too-plump, lumpy little daughter is worried about her figure," a mother writes understandingly. "I tell her that she'll change as she gets farther into her teens, but nothing will do but that I write to you. Frankly, I can see that the overweight I fight constantly is on her mind. Do you have some encouraging suggestions for her?"

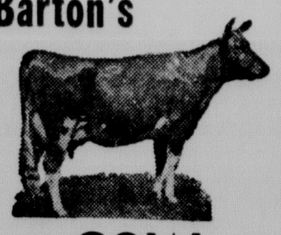

Nature will lengthen her and distribute her proportions more pleasingly as she matures. Of course this is true, but since she may have a tendency toward continuing plumpness, she should be meticulous about her diet, even now. Don't serve her many starches and help her cut down her intake of sweets, although at her age she shouldn't omit them. You can do very much for her by giving her satisfying but well-balanced meals. Good eating habits established right now will help her far into the future. And probably the most good will come from avoiding the habit of overeating — both of you be strict about her eating too much.

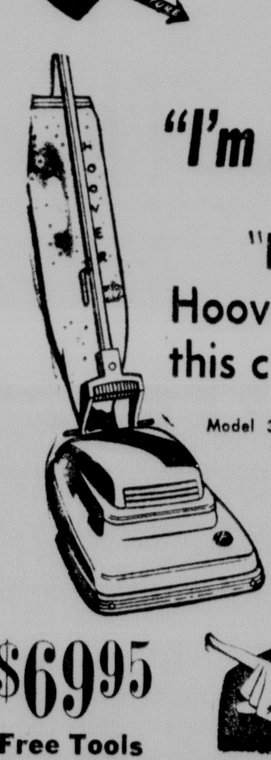

Then there need be no delay about tackling spot weight problems, such as heavy ankles. Let her wear small heels part time and put her on a real or an imaginary bicycle. What she does with her legs now will make a big difference in their shape in the future. And teach her some limbering-up exercises — many young girls are surprisingly inflexible through the middle, and this must be corrected in the interests of grace as well as of a trim waistline.

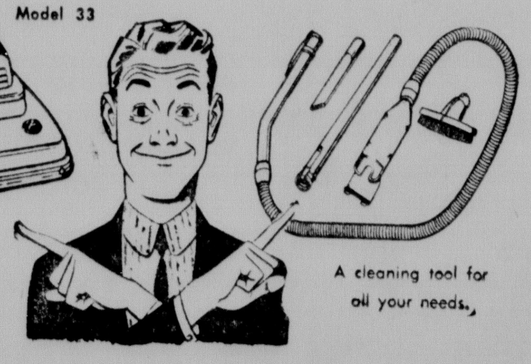

Of course make sure that she exercises more if she tends to be inactive. The Dance Your Way to Beauty program is a good one for her, and she'll think it's great fun. It's in a booklet we'll mail you for 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

½ cup canned button mushrooms

Dredge steak lightly with flour, shaking off any excess. Brown steak in hot butter or oil in heavy skillet; drain and remove to baking pan or dish. Measure hot oil remaining in skillet. For each 2 tablespoons, set aside 2 tablespoons flour and 1 cup water. Return oil to skillet, blend in flour, stirring constantly until rich brown. Stir in water, monosodium glutamate, salt and pepper to taste. Cook gravy to medium thickness. Pour gravy over steak, cover and bake in 350° oven for 1½ hours or until meat is tender. Top with mushrooms during last 5 minutes of cooking. Serves 4-6.

Public Meetings Set On Annexation Request

GETS AMCELLE POST — Byron C. Dame has been promoted to the position of plant accountant at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company. He came here from Charlotte, N. C. headquarters of the company and is a graduate of Syracuse University.

The Mayor and Council yesterday approved a resolution which gives public notice that a petition has been received requesting annexation of an area of Haystack Mountain.

At the same time, it was requested to consider annexing another small portion of the area owned by Sunset View Real Estate and Development Company adjoining but which contains no residents and is partly on a steep slope.

The resolution and public notice provides that it be advertised for four weeks and that a public hearing or hearings be held within 15 days after the final notice, City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen told council in replying to a request that it be delayed in order to acquaint the public with procedures involved.

The delay request came from Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder who asked if it were possible "before we set any documents going," to hold public meetings and describe to citizens what annexation means, the territory involved, answer questions and get their suggestions.

"This would be nice," she said, "since the citizens are going to pay the bill. The resolution does give the public a chance to be heard but I think we will be well into the annexation and they will still be trying to find out what is going on."

Mrs. Roeder said she was willing to put that in a form of a motion but it died for want of a second.

Mr. McMullen said that since the petition has been received and signatures verified, the law required insertion as an advertisement of the public notice. A hearing possibly will be held in January, he added.

Mrs. Roeder wanted to know if the Sunset View request, submitted by Thomas W. Burton, secretary, could not be combined with the present annexation request. Mayor Earl D. Chaney also questioned this.

Mr. McMullen said Burton's request is not ready for action and the area still has to be surveyed.

The petitioners for the Haystack Mountain area annexation, which would include Sacred Heart Hospital, are George and Joan H. Henderson; Cumberland Real Estate Company, Emma R. Richards, president; Colonial Acres, Inc., Thomas B. Finan, president; and Sacred Heart Hospital, Sisters of Charity, Inc., Sister Mary Richard, president.

It is estimated that there are ten million victims of leprosy in the world.

City Gets Cost Report On Sewer Project

A cost report of the McKinley Avenue sewer project, which was eligible for federal assistance under the Accelerated Public Works program, was filed with the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The report by City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum shows that total cost was $8,522.30 with the federal government share amounting to $4,261.15. Property owners will pay $2.99 a lineal foot for the project which covered a total distance of 1,065 feet and included: McKinley Avenue from its interesection with Thompson Avenue to Ridge Terrace; a portion of Ridge Terrace from McKinley to Ritchie and approximately 150 feet south on Ritchie.

In other activity, council approved $100 payment to the Chamber of Commerce to assist in promotional work for the proposed Appalachian Thruway paralleling U. S. Route 220.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light was authorized to advertise for bids on 2,000 lineal feet of six-inch Class 150 cast iron pipe and fittings and 300 feet of eight-inch mechanical joint Class 150 cast iron pipe and fittings.

Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder was authorized to advertise for bids for a sewer and pipe cleaning machine and four motors (15, 3, 1½ and ½ horsepower) for the sewage treatment plant.

Council accepted the bid of Regal Fence Company, $996, for a chain link fence atop Lake Gordon dam; and the bid of Orrie Sensabaugh, $11,961, for a 36-inch water line along an unnamed alley between Reynolds and Monroe streets.

Payment of $3,000 to Wes-Mar Communications for an overhead traffic signal at Valley and North Mechanic streets was approved.

The United States has nearly one-third of the world's railroad mileage.

Work Underway At Hospital

A kitchen and cafeteria modernization program is underway at Memorial Hospital in a effort to improve food service and to meet the anticipated increased demand by the additional new hospital wing now under construction.

John A. Moberly, hospital superintendent, said that the kitchen and cafeteria project will cost in the neighborhood of $120,000.

The project is half-finished, he said, and is scheduled to be completed at the first of next year.

Some inconvenience will be caused this week to hospital employes and nurses who use the cafeteria, but the patient serving area is operating as usual, Mr. Moberly said. He said the new patient serving area has been completed.

The modernized kitchen and serving area will be in the same general location as before, the superintendent said, and no building extension will be involved.

Mr. Moberly said the modernization will not include enlarging the present area to any extent, but that the change will allow a more efficient operation, getting more use from the space available.

He said it is expected that the cafeteria will be able to resume normal operations in another week.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother is 39 years of age and she just found out that she is pregnant. My sister is 12 and mother is so burned up about having a baby after so many years that she is making life miserable for everyone in this house.

She has already told me not to make any social plans for May because from then on I will be busy taking care of the new baby. I was a camp counselor last summer and I loved it. I was looking forward to going back next year but mom says now I can forget all about camp because I will "have my hands full."

I think it is very unfair of my mother to louse up my whole life just because she is having a baby. Please tell me how to cope with this problem. — SHOOK UP PLENTY

DEAR SHOOK: It's unfortunate, to say the least, that your mother feels as she does about the new baby and it's outrageous that she is advertising her unhappiness.

Let's hope that by the time the baby arrives your mother will have changed her attitude. After the little one is born, she may well be thrilled, and you might go to camp after all.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I promised my wife Eva that your word would be law.

We have been married 28 years so you know Eva is no spring chicken and I'm not exactly a rooster myself. We both work in the same office building and we eat dinner out about four nights a week.

Eva likes to eat where there is music because she's a great little dancer. Whenever there are unattached men around she smiles, winks, snaps her fingers to the music, keeps time with her head —anything to advertise the fact that she has rhythm.

Strange guys are always coming over to the table and asking Eva to dance. She says yes to anybody — old or young, short or tall, drunk or sober. It doesn't matter if the spaghetti just got there, she'll leave anything to get up and dance.

I keep telling her I don't think this is nice. She says it's okay because these men can see she is with her husband. Yes or No? —PHIL

DEAR PHIL: A respectable woman, whether she's married or single, should not be an available dancing partner for strangers —drunk or sober.

Tell Eva that Grannie Annie says she should stick to her spaghetti or dance with her husband.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is for parents who compare one child with another. I was the victim of such comparison and it almost wrecked me.

After high school graduation it was assumed that I would go to Dartmouth like my older brother. Well, my grades were not good

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother is 39 years of age and she just found out that she is pregnant. My sister is 12 and mother is so burned up about having a baby after so many years that she is making life miserable for everyone in this house.

She has already told me not to make any social plans for May because from then on I will be busy taking care of the new baby. I was a camp counselor last summer and I loved it. I was looking forward to going back next year but mom says now I can forget all about camp because I will "have my hands full."

I think it is very unfair of my mother to louse up my whole life just because she is having a baby. Please tell me how to cope with this problem. — SHOOK UP PLENTY

DEAR SHOOK: It's unfortunate, to say the least, that your mother feels as she does about the new baby and it's outrageous that she is advertising her unhappiness.

Let's hope that by the time the baby arrives your mother will have changed her attitude. After the little one is born, she may well be thrilled, and you might go to camp after all.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I promised my wife Eva that your word would be law.

We have been married 28 years so you know Eva is no spring chicken and I'm not exactly a rooster myself. We both work in the same office building and we eat dinner out about four nights a week.

Eva likes to eat where there is music because she's a great little dancer. Whenever there are unattached men around she smiles, winks, snaps her fingers to the music, keeps time with her head—anything to advertise the fact that she has rhythm.

Strange guys are always coming over to the table and asking Eva to dance. She says yes to anybody — old or young, short or tall, drunk or sober. It doesn't matter if the spaghetti just got there, she'll leave anything to get up and dance.

I keep telling her I don't think this is nice. She says it's okay because these men can see she is with her husband. Yes or No? —PHIL

DEAR PHIL: A respectable woman, whether she's married or single, should not be an available dancing partner for strangers —drunk or sober.

Tell Eva that Grannie Annie says she should stick to her spaghetti or dance with her husband.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is for parents who compare one child with another. I was the victim of such comparison and it almost wrecked me.

After high school graduation it was assumed that I would go to Dartmouth like my older brother. Well, my grades were not good

Mr. Powell And The Libel Laws

When a Sunday supplement recently accused Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.) of "scandalous" overseas spending of counterpart funds, the Congressman's answer was the threat of libel suits totaling $84 million. The Harlem dandy is no stranger to libel actions, as will be demonstrated on Thursday when he is under court order to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for failing to pay a $211,500 defamation judgment against him.

The show-cause order and other papers were served on the peripatetic Mr. Powell on November 21 in Washington, and either he or his lawyer must answer the subpoena before the New York State Supreme Court in New York City. A 67-year-old widow has been trying to collect the award since last April. A jury agreed at that time that she had been defamed when Powell described her on television as a "bag woman" who collected graft for the police.

Powell often is cited as a prime exhibit in the case against handing out important Congressional chairmanships on the sole basis of seniority. Chairmanship of the important House Committee on Education and Labor devolved on him after Rep. Graham A. Barden (D.-N.C.) decided not to stand for re-election in 1960. Neither his racist attitudes, his absenteeism, his brushes with the Internal Revenue Service, nor other criticisms, seem to have demeaned Powell in the eyes of his constituents.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Rhythms Of History

Due to our habit of "balancing" our national party slates with presidential and vice presidential candidates who have contrasting characteristics, a strange rhythm has marked our recent history. The conservative McKinley is shot, and the bronco-busting Teddy Roosevelt opens the Age of Reform. Franklin D. Roosevelt, a patrician from a Hudson River estate and a background of Groton School and Harvard, dies in office and is succeeded by "Give-em-Hell" Harry Truman, the man from the "show me" state of Missouri. And John F. Kennedy, once called the "first Irish Brahmin," is followed by Lyndon Johnson, a largely self-made man from the poor ranch country of mid-Texas.

Now, when there is a change in the presidency through death, the suddenly exalted former Vice President invariably stresses the continuity of his party and Administration policies. But, though the intentions may be good, everything depends on temperament. The style, the rhythm, the emotional boiling point, of the so-called back-country man from Missouri or Texas will never be the same as styles and rhythms and tempers nurtured in the cosmopolitan East.

The mark of the Harvard-educated patrician, both in the case of FDR and JFK, was a willingness to trust that reason would prevail in the relations between great sovereign states whose aims might differ. So we had Franklin Roosevelt explaining to the late Forrest Davis about a Great Design for the peace of the world that would be founded on mutual trust between Stalin, Churchill, Chiang Kai-shek and the White House in Washington. Roosevelt always felt that he could "manage" Stalin.

When Harry Truman moved into the White House on that Spring day in 1945 when the war was coming to its end, Roosevelt's "trust Stalin" policies had already been sealed at Yalta. In the ensuing deliberations at Potsdam Harry Truman had little opportunity to let his native suspiciousness flower into new policy, and the war was liquidated with West Berlin fatefully isolated in Soviet-conquered territory. It didn't take long, however, for Truman to make a skeptical Missourian's assessment of Stalin's character. Thus, in Greece, in Korea and in the countries of Europe which accepted the Marshall Plan, Truman stood up to the evil genius of the Kremlin.

Khrushchev is a far more whimsical fellow than Stalin, and, with his own Ukrainian peasant's reliance on sly alternations of bluster and accommodation, he may merit more trust for fundamental sanity than his implacable predecessor. John F. Kennedy may, therefore, have taken a reasonable gamble in hoping to wangle Khrushchev via the hot wire and test ban. But it is interesting to note that, in Lyndon Johnson, we now have a President whose past utterances on the subject of dealing with Communism would seem to put him in Harry Truman's skeptical company.

I have been looking through some of the literature put out by Johnson's supporters for the presidential nomination in the Spring of 1960, prior to the Democratic convention which passed him by for the top spot and then made amends by nominating him for Vice President. The literature is anything but propitiatory toward Khrushchev. It quotes Johnson as saying: "An international stalmate with Communism would be the greatest waste of American resources and the resources of freedom, even though stalemate produced no war. A vital government cannot accept stalemate in any area."

So, if words means anything, this makes Johnson sound like the Douglas MacArthur who said there is no substitute for victory.

The 1960 "Johnson for President" literature also glories in Nikita Khrushchev's reaction to Johnson's own voting and speech-making record in Congress. When Khrushchev was introduced to Johnson during his visit to the United States in September of 1959, he said to the then Majority Leader of the Senate: "I do not know you. But I have read all your speeches and I do not like any of them."

Johnson had no trust in the Spirit of Geneva or the Spirit of Camp David. This augurs well for the peace negotiations of the future. The "show me" rhythm of Truman may be in the ascendancy once more. And it is obvious that any nation gets a better deal when it demands of the other fellow that he prove his sincerity.

'Now – What Would I Want With A Hot Potato?'

LBJ Pulls A Plum But Swallows A Bitter Pill

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Almost unnoticed, President Johnson has already pulled out a pretty big plum from the squalid Congressional pudding — in which the plums are so few and far between that most Jack Horners would be hopelessly discouraged.

By his agreement to give Sen. Harry F. Byrd an advance peek at the 1964 budget, the President has persuaded the reluctant Virginian to accelerate the Senate Finance Committee's languid contemplation of the tax reduction bill. If all goes well, therefore, the committee majority favoring the bill will finally get the chance to send it to the Senate floor nearly in January.

Thus the odds are now quite strong that the tax bill will become law at least two months earlier than anyone had previously hoped or thought possible. And this prospect of much earlier action on the tax bill is a real plum, for which everyone ought to be thankful.

The plum-plucking was only possible, however, because President Johnson has also had to swallow a bitter pill. Beginning with his admirable speech to the joint session of Congress, the new President has gone all out to get the House and Senate votes on the civil rights bill within a reasonable time. But in this he seems to have failed.

Precisely because the civil rights bill is unlikely to reach the Senate until late in January, if by that time, there is a time-gap for Senate action on the tax bill if Sen. Byrd keeps his promise. But this is an inadequate consolation for the delay of the civil rights bill, which President Johnson fears will never pass the Senate at all if it gets there later than Feb. 1.

The cause of the delay, of course, is the most powerful and least endearing of all the powerful and unendearing Congressional anachronisms, the chairman of the House Rules Committee, Rep. Howard Smith of Virginia.

Smith means to sit on the civil rights bill as long as possible. And his two constant allies, the House Republican leader, Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, and the senior Republican Rules Committee member, Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, do not mean to obstruct Smith's obstructionism.

Even on the House Rules Committee, which is not normally noted for its progressivism, there is a majority for the civil rights bill. Halleck and Brown agreed with Rep. Smith that they will not interfere with his "degenerate and furtive filibuster," as Walter Lippmann has accurately described this kind of purposeful delay in committee. But if and when the bill comes to a committee vote, all the Republican members will vote for it. This will provide a sure majority.

A petition to discharge the Rules Committee and bring the civil rights bill to the House floor has meanwhile been presented by Reps. Emmanuel Celler of New York and Richard Bolling of Missouri. President Johnson has ordered full White House support for the petition.

But this is a pretty hopeless tactic, for 218 members' names are needed to pry the civil rights bill from the antique talons of Rep. Smith. With no Southerners to help, the Democrats can hardly muster more than 150 petition signers.

Among the Republicans, Rep. John Lindsay of New York has been talking bravely of collecting 60 signatures — which would be more than enough. But if Lindsay can do this against the opposition of Republican leader Halleck, it will be the biggest surprise in recent Congressional history.

Finally, if and when the civil rights bill reaches the Senate, it will of course touch off a vicious and obstinate filibuster. It can hardly pass the Senate unless cloture is voted. On this point the Senate Republican leader has told President Kennedy, that he is "for seven-eighths of the bill."

Being translated, this means that most of the Republicans will support cloture in the end. But they will only do so in the end, after a fruitless waste of many weeks to give the filibusters time to make a show.

Worse still, the eighth of the bill which Dirksen and the other middle-ground Republicans do not favor includes the sections on public accommodations and the Fair Employment Practices Commission. These sections may have to be jettisoned or gravely diluted in order to secure cloture.

The public accommodations section, particularly, has meanwhile become a symbol and touchstone of white America's willingness to accord equal rights to Negro America. Thus there is considerable danger that even after the interminable, needless, and inexcusable delays now in prospect, a satisfactory civil rights bill will not be voted.

If this sort of thing goes on much longer, there will also be considerable danger of a nationwide revolt against the persistent and increasing Congressional abuse of the legislative power, which is reaching the stage of ugly parody.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NATION STRONG — It is quite apparent, as it has been to some leaders for many years, that the problem of national continuity is more apparent than real. The question arises whenever tragedy strikes at the White House, but it is always answered the same way — by a demonstration of the strength of the national government and the Constitution.

Yet, it is popular for politicians and diplomats to talk in terms of a "moratorium" on attacks on the new administration, a sort of gesture of good sportsmanship, permitting a struck and fallen man to rise again before striking another blow.

In the normal course of events, no new administration needs more of a moratorium than falls its way as a natural consequence of change. Should a brand new administration be attacked by its political opposition, that opposition would be the sufferer in a national revulsion on the part of the electorate. Likewise, should a diplomatic attack occur on the part of another country, that country would suffer once true equilibrium is restored to the administration, usually a matter of a very few days.

Americans — some in positions of high leadership — imply in these gestures for a moratorium on partisan politics and on world diplomacy, that the nation's system is some kind of frail, hothouse flower. It isn't. It is a sturdy, mature creation that has proved its unique strength through all kinds of tragedies and alarms. It's time that Americans look upon their government as the grown-up man it is.

Nursing Home Fire Shows Need For Speedy Action On Medicare

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—One day after the assassination of President Kennedy in Texas, another tragedy occurred in Fitchville, Ohio, when 63 elderly invalids burned to death in the Golden Age Rest Home. The oldest was 93, the youngest 68. All were placed in the home by relatives who wanted to get rid of them or couldn't afford to keep them or by a state which wasn't really concerned about them.

About the time of this tragic fire, Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, who presides over the Ways and Means Committee in Washington, made a statement to other Congressmen that he had no intention of pushing the medical care for the elderly bill out of his committee this year.

The medicare bill, introduced by Rep. Cecil King, D-Calif., on February 13, 1961, has now been before the Ways and Means Committee for almost three years. But the handsome Arkansas Democrat who rules the committee with a deft but iron hand has refused to help vote it out.

If he had, the tragedy in Ohio might have been avoided.

The Golden Age

It would be salutary if Chairman Mills took his committee out to Ohio to see the charred remains of the oldsters who perished in the Golden Age nursing home because they had no medical insurance from the government to help them in the golden years of their lives.

The committee would find that 17 of the oldsters were forgotten individuals. They were listed: "relatives unknown." Mrs. Ethel Schwenk of East Cleveland, whose father died in the fire, didn't even know that he was in the home.

The people in the home, many of them in wheel chairs, were retired small businessmen, housewives, a railroad worker, a glazier, a meat cutter, a part-time minister, a former coal and brick company owner, and a fruit market operator. They had seen better days. In the twilight of their lives their earning power was nil, their savings were exhausted, and they had heavy medical expenses.

So they were living in what was originally a toy factory, abandoned in 1952 when a woman was killed in an explosion. The floor was a cinderblock and concrete, the walls of wood, the roof of tar. The latter collapsed on the patients during the fire.

Four nurses were supposed to be on duty, but it took a truck driver, Henry Dahman of Sarber, Pa., to spot the fire in the early morning of November 23. When he and Rev. Clifford French of Wooster, Ohio, got there, they found the front and side doors bolted. When they finally entered by the rear, they found the old people standing around in the hall. They didn't know what was going on.

Roll-Call Of Defeat

The Norwalk Fire Department at first refused to respond to the call, said it was outside their contractural area. There was no nearby fire hydrant, water had to be tanked five miles.

When it was all over, the bodies inside were so badly burned that relatives were not asked to identify them. One invalid in a wheel chair was found cremated in the linen closet. In the darkness he had opened the wrong door. Only 21 of the 86 elderly people in the golden age of their lives were led out of the Golden Age nursing home.

This is what Wilbur Mills, the handsome, efficient, and likeable Congressman from Arknasas should take his Ways and Means Committee to see.

Note—The Congressmen blocking medicare inside the Ways and Means Committee include ten Republicans and four Democrats. The Republicans are: John Byrnes, Wis., who recently was revealed to have made a $25,000 quickie profit from an insurance company after he did a tax favor for it; James Utt, Calif., an extreme rightist; Bruce Alger of Texas, who jostled Lady Bird Johnson in a Dallas hotel; Howard Baker, Tenn., Tom Curtis, Mo., Victor Knox, Mich., Jackson Betts, Ohio, Steve Derounian, N. Y., Herman Schneebeli, Pa., and Harold Collier, Ill.

The Democrats, besides Chairman Mills, are John Watts from the horse-racing country of Kentucky, Clark Thompson of Galveston, Tex., who lives in one of the swankiest homes on Massachuetts Ave., and A. S. Herlong of Florida.

Behind The Scenes

TV viewers of the Kennedy funeral were impressed with the manner in which the President's widow stuck close to her brother-in-law, Robert Kennedy, with Sen. Ted Kennedy on the other side. This was no accident. The doctor had dosed Jackie with tranquilizers and asked the two brothers to stay by her side in case she faltered . . . . . Caroline and John Jr. got children's tranquilizers to keep them from being too frisky. . . . President Johnson made a fervent appeal to Attorney General Robert Kennedy to remain in the Cabinet. Johnson meant what he said. Bobby promised to search his soul before giving an answer. . . Johnson assured Secretary of Defense McNamara that he not only wanted him to remain but would support him 100 per cent against some of the brass hat critics . . . Johnson has now talked to every member of the Cabinet and most agency heads, asking them to stay on the job. . . . The tycoons of Wall Street have confessed that prayer probably was responsible for the spectacular recovery of the stock market after Kennedy's assassination. When Wall Street saw millions of people flock to the churches to mourn their late President, it gave an air of unity to the nation and resulted in one of the highest stock rises in history. . . . Prime Minister Nehru of India has apologized to the American Embassy that he was so busy with the Indian Parliament he couldn't attend Kennedy's funeral. Nehru said he will try to visit Washington after January 1 to lay a wreath on the late President's grave.

The Playing Fields

By John Crosby

WINDSOR, ENGLAND

"There was no score in the annual St. Andrew's Day wall game played at Eton yesterday between the Collagers (scholarship boys) and the Oppidans (boys who pay the posh prep school's full fee). No goal has been scored in the match since 1909." So ran the Sunday Time's entire story. Well, they missed all the finer points. I'll fill you in.

The wall game is played nowhere else in the world except at Eton, on the playing fields of which, etc., etc. Eton was started in 1440 by Henry VI and has been turning small boys into Prime Ministers ever since. It's felt that, if a boy can survive Eton, he can survive anything—World War I, World War II, World War III, World War IV, World War V. . .

The wall game helps develop fortitude. Stamina. Patience. Unflappability. Resignation. Let me put the thing in lay terms. The ball (a special ball used in no other game) is placed against the wall. The wall falls on it. (No, stupid! The wall is a position, like left tackle.) The opponents' wall falls on him. The second wall of the first team falls on the opponents' wall and the second wall falls on him. The other players — the lines, the flys, and the longs — close in, at the ready. (Ready for what, for God's sake?) Ten yards back stand the officials in top hats, watching for fouls, misplays. (There haven't been any since Charles II, but you never know.) Somewhat closer stand two lynx-eyed journalists, scribbling away, getting down every detail. (What details?)

Standing back about 50 yards narrowly watching this packed mass of players lying on each other, playing their hearts out (winning the battle of Waterloo, and also World War I, World War II, World War III, World War IV, World War V) are a dense mass of mothers, fathers, brothers, old Etonians, sisters, sweethearts, not missing a single move. This isn't hard because there aren't any.

Steam rises from the bodies.

The wind blows. Hoarse grunts rent the air.

By great good fortune, I watched the wall game from the house of a tutor whose living room adjoins the wall. We were inside. Actually, I think it was warmer outside. It's considered very bad form to be warm at Eton. Small boys go through six years at Eton, shivering, getting ready to be Prime Minister, spurred by the thought there's probably a fireplace at 10 Downing Street.

"There's been a good deal of nepotism, I'm afraid," confided the tutor. "The boys pull a lot of strings."

I'll bet they do. I can just imagine every boy calling his uncle, the Prime Minister (every boy's uncle is either a Prime Minister or former Prime Minister or future Prime Minister) and saying, "For God's sake, uncle, get me out of this."

They'll do anything to get in there and play," said the tutor.

Oh. I had thought it was some sort of punishment. For skipping class or something. Not punishment. It's fun. Well, I suppose small boys will do anything — lie face down in freezing mud while someone else is trying to kick your teeth in—provided it's only once a year. "Oh, they play three times a week during the season," said the tutor. "I play myself. Been playing for ten years and I'm just getting the hang of it."

I watched the pile of motionless bodies. Get the hang of what? The tutor showed me three white lines at the end of the wall. That's where they'd score if anyone ever did. Barring a goal, you can always score a shy. They're pretty rare, too.

How about before 1909? "There was a riot of scoring in the last century," said the tutor. "Three, I think. Then they tightened up the defense."

Suddenly the ball shot out into the open.

"Oh-" gasped the tutor's wife. "How exciting! I've never seen the ball before."

She'd been attending games for 10 years. We were all paralyzed with astonishment. I thought, "My God! What a scoop! I'll see the first score since 1909. A guy ran out and touched the ball. That made it dead. The ball was returned to the wall. The wall fell on it. The other wall fell on him. The second wall fell on him. The other second wall fell on him. Steam arose. The journalists scribbled. The spectators were riveted with the wonder of it all. (Or maybe they were frozen to death.)

Well, it was a scoreless tie after all. But wait till next year.

New Procedures In Brain Tumor Detection

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Tumors and other brain lesions are diagnosed in various ways. Several new procedures are being tried, including an improved radar machine. The instrument is held against the scalp and ultrasound waves are sent into the head. These echo from the opposite side of the skull and the time interval is noted. Since the normal pattern is known, a defect is suspected when the echoes are abnormal.

Radioisotopes are used to diagnose lesions of various organs, including the brain. There is a tendency for certain radioactive materials to concentrate in or about brain tumors, abscesses, and clots adjacent to the skull.

The isotope is injected into a vein, and 3 to 5 hours later the individual is placed in front of a scanning device. This instrument passes back and forth over the head and produces a record that shows whether the radioisotopes are scattered evenly or are localized in one area.

Scanning does not pick up all tumors — X-ray continues to be the most useful diagnostic tool. In some instances, air is injected into the spinal fluid (pneumoencephalogram) to visualize the ventricles of the brain. In others, a contrast solution is injected into the carotid artery and X-rays are taken almost simultaneously (angiography). They will show up changes in the blood vessels of the brain.

Important clues are obtained also from testing the spinal fluid, a physical examination, and an electroencephalogram. The latter records the brain waves, and abnormalities excite or depress the electrical activities.

The manifestations of brain tumors vary and depend upon the portion of the brain that is compressed or otherwise disturbed by the expanding new growth. Headache is the most frequent symptom. Others include nausea, visual disorders, convulsions, mental dullness, incoordination and muscle weakness, or paralysis.

SLIMMING DIET

C. M. writes: I would like to get back into shape with a sensible diet. What would you suggest?
REPLY
The best way, if your meals are now balanced, is to eat the same things but cut the portions in half. If you want to count calories or use a more formal reducing diet, send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflets on these subjects.

EXERCISE WON'T BRIGHTEN

H. S. writes: Would exercises that stimulate circulation have any stimulating effect on the brain and make the person smarter?
REPLY
No, and if they did, most of our athletes (including wrestlers and boxers) would be professors.

ALLERGIC TENDENCY

Mrs. L. writes: My son is allergic to wheat and dust. One of our neighbors said he probably will develop hay fever as he grows older. Is this likely?
REPLY
The tendency is in that direction. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on allergy.

PRESSURE AND SMOKING

D. H. writes: Should a person stop smoking if his blood pressure is only 92?
REPLY
Not for this reason.

NAVEL RUPTURE

Mrs. J. W. writes: Since my husband died, I've cried so much I think I have ruptured my navel. Will a binder help or do I need an operation?
REPLY
Take your choice but make certain of the diagnosis before you do anything.

IT COMES TO ALL

W. D. writes: Does anyone escape hardening of the arteries?
REPLY
Not if they live long enough.

THE WITHDRAWN TYPE

L. S. writes: Is a person born an introvert or does he acquire it?
REPLY
Some are born this way and the trait is noted early in chilhood. Others acquire the tendency as a result of early or later experiences.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Khrushchev is a far more whimsical fellow than Stalin, and, with his own Ukrainian peasant's reliance on sly alternations of bluster and accommodation, he may merit more trust for fundamental sanity than his implacable predecessor. John F. Kennedy may, therefore, have taken a reasonable gamble in hoping to wangle Khrushchev via the hot wire and test ban. But it is interesting to note that, in Lyndon Johnson, we now have a President whose past utterances on the subject of dealing with Communism would seem to put him in Harry Truman's skeptical company.

I have been looking through some of the literature put out by Johnson's supporters for the presidential nomination in the Spring of 1960, prior to the Democratic convention which passed him by for the top spot and then made amends by nominating him for Vice President. The literature is anything but propitiatory toward Khrushchev. It quotes Johnson as saying: "An international stalmate with Communism would be the greatest waste of American resources and the resources of freedom, even though stalemate produced no war. A vital government cannot accept stalemate in any area."

So, if words means anything, this makes Johnson sound like the Douglas MacArthur who said there is no substitute for victory.

The 1960 "Johnson for President" literature also glories in Nikita Khrushchev's reaction to Johnson's own voting and speech-making record in Congress. When Khrushchev was introduced to Johnson during his visit to the United States in September of 1959, he said to the then Majority Leader of the Senate: "I do not know you. But I have read all your speeches and I do not like any of them."

Johnson had no trust in the Spirit of Geneva or the Spirit of Camp David. This augurs well for the peace negotiations of the future. The "show me" rhythm of Truman may be in the ascendancy once more. And it is obvious that any nation gets a better deal when it demands of the other fellow that he prove his sincerity.

Nursing Home Fire Shows Need For Speedy Action On Medicare

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—One day after the assassination of President Kennedy in Texas, another tragedy occurred in Fitchville, Ohio, when 63 elderly invalids burned to death in the Golden Age Rest Home. The oldest was 93, the youngest 68. All were placed in the home by relatives who wanted to get rid of them or couldn't afford to keep them or by a state which wasn't really concerned about them.

About the time of this tragic fire, Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, who presides over the Ways and Means Committee in Washington, made a statement to other Congressmen that he had no intention of pushing the medical care for the elderly bill out of his committee this year.

The medicare bill, introduced by Rep. Cecil King, D-Calif., on February 13, 1961, has now been before the Ways and Means Committee for almost three years But the handsome Arkansas Democrat who rules the committee with a deft but iron hand has refused to help vote it out.

If he had, the tragedy in Ohio might have been avoided.

The Golden Age

It would be salutary if Chairman Mills took his committee out to Ohio to see the charred remains of the oldsters who perished in the Golden Age nursing home because they had no medical insurance from the government to help them in the golden years of their lives.

The committee would find that 17 of the oldsters were forgotten individuals. They were listed: "relatives unknown." Mrs. Ethel Schwenk of East Cleveland, whose father died in the fire, didn't even know that he was in the home.

The people in the home, many of them in wheel chairs, were retired small businessmen, housewives, a railroad worker, a glazier, a meat cutter, a part-time minister, a former coal and brick company owner, and a fruit market operator. They had seen better days. In the twilight of their lives their earning power was nil, their savings were exhausted, and they had heavy medical expenses.

So they were living in what was originally a toy factory, abandoned in 1952 when a woman was killed in an explosion. The floor was a cinderblock and concrete, the walls of wood, the roof of tar. The latter collapsed on the patients during the fire.

Four nurses were supposed to be on duty, but it took a truck driver, Henry Dahman of Sarber, Pa., to spot the fire in the early morning of November 23. When he and Rev. Clifford French of Wooster, Ohio, got there, they found the front and side doors bolted. When they finally entered by the rear, they found the old people standing around in the hall. They didn't know what was going on.

Roll-Call Of Defeat

The Norwalk Fire Department at first refused to respond to the call, said it was outside their contractural area. There was no nearby fire hydrant, water had to be tanked five miles.

When it was all over, the bodies inside were so badly burned that relatives were not asked to identify them. One invalid in a wheel chair was found cremated in the linen closet. In the darkness he had opened the wrong door. Only 21 of the 86 elderly people in the golden age of their lives were led out of the Golden Age nursing home.

This is what Wilbur Mills, the handsome, efficient, and likeable Congressman from Arknasas should take his Ways and Means Committee to see.

Note—The Congressmen blocking medicare inside the Ways and Means Committee include ten Republicans and four Democrats. The Republicans are: John Byrnes, Wis., who recently was revealed to have made a $25,000 quickie profit from an insurance company after he did a tax favor for it; James Utt, Calif., an extreme rightist; Bruce Alger of Texas, who jostled Lady Bird Johnson in a Dallas hotel; Howard Baker, Tenn., Tom Curtis, Mo., Victor Knox, Mich., Jackson Betts, Ohio, Steve Derounian, N. Y., Herman Schneebeli, Pa., and Harold Collier, Ill.

The Democrats, besides Chairman Mills, are John Watts from the horse-racing country of Kentucky, Clark Thompson of Galveston, Tex., who lives in one of the swankiest homes on Massachuetts Ave., and A. S. Herlong of Florida.

Behind The Scenes

TV viewers of the Kennedy funeral were impressed with the manner in which the President's widow stuck close to her brother-in-law, Robert Kennedy, with Sen. Ted Kennedy on the other side. This was no accident. The doctor had dosed Jackie with tranquilizers and asked the two brothers to stay by her side in case she faltered . . . . . Caroline and John Jr. got children's tranquilizers to keep them from being too frisky. . . . President Johnson made a fervent appeal to Attorney General Robert Kennedy to remain in the Cabinet. Johnson meant what he said. Bobby promised to search his soul before giving an answer. . . Johnson assured Secretary of Defense McNamara that he not only wanted him to remain but would support him 100 per cent against some of the brass hat critics . . . Johnson has now talked to every member of the Cabinet and most agency heads, asking them to stay on the job. . . . The tycoons of Wall Street have confessed that prayer probably was responsible for the spectacular recovery of the stock market after Kennedy's assassination. When Wall Street saw millions of people flock to the churches to mourn their late President, it gave an air of unity to the nation and resulted in one of the highest stock rises in history. . . . Prime Minister Nehru of India has apologized to the American Embassy that he was so busy with the Indian Parliament he couldn't attend Kennedy's funeral. Nehru said he will try to visit Washington after January 1 to lay a wreath on the late President's grave.

LBJ Pulls A Plum But Swallows A Bitter Pill

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Almost unnoticed, President Johnson has already pulled out a pretty big plum from the squalid Congressional pudding — in which the plums are so few and far between that most Jack Horners would be hopelessly discouraged.

By his agreement to give Sen. Harry F. Byrd an advance peek at the 1964 budget, the President has persuaded the reluctant Virginian to accelerate the Senate Finance Committee's languid contemplation of the tax reduction bill. If all goes well, therefore, the committee majority favoring the bill will finally get the chance to send it to the Senate floor nearly in January.

Thus the odds are now quite strong that the tax bill will become law at least two months earlier than anyone had previously hoped or thought possible. And this prospect of much earlier action on the tax bill is a real plum, for which everyone ought to be thankful.

The plum-plucking was only possible, however, because President Johnson has also had to swallow a bitter pill. Beginning with his admirable speech to the joint session of Congress, the new President has gone all out to get the House and Senate votes on the civil rights bill within a reasonable time. But in this he seems to have failed.

Precisely because the civil rights bill is unlikely to reach the Senate until late in January, if by that time, there is a time-gap for Senate action on the tax bill if Sen. Byrd keeps his promise. But this is an inadequate consolation for the delay of the civil rights bill, which President Johnson fears will never pass the Senate at all if it gets there later than Feb. 1.

The cause of the delay, of course, is the most powerful and least endearing of all the powerful and unendearing Congressional anachronisms, the chairman of the House Rules Committee, Rep. Howard Smith of Virginia.

Smith means to sit on the civil rights bill as long as possible. And his two constant allies, the House Republican leader, Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, and the senior Republican Rules Committee member, Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, do not mean to obstruct Smith's obstructionism.

Even on the House Rules Committee, which is not normally noted for its progressivism, there is a majority for the civil rights bill. Halleck and Brown agreed with Rep. Smith that they will not interfere with his "degenerate and furtive filibuster," as Walter Lippmann has accurately described this kind of purposeful delay in committee. But if and when the bill comes to a committee vote, all the Republican members will vote for it. This will provide a sure majority.

A petition to discharge the Rules Committee and bring the civil rights bill to the House floor has meanwhile been presented by Reps. Emmanuel Celler of New York and Richard Bolling of Missouri. President Johnson has ordered full White House support for the petition.

But this is a pretty hopeless tactic, for 218 members' names are needed to pry the civil rights bill from the antique talons of Rep. Smith. With no Southerners to help, the Democrats can hardly muster more than 150 petition signers.

Among the Republicans, Rep. John Lindsay of New York has been talking bravely of collecting 60 signatures — which would be more than enough. But if Lindsay can do this against the opposition of Republican leader Halleck, it will be the biggest surprise in recent Congressional history.

Finally, if and when the civil rights bill reaches the Senate, it will of course touch off a vicious and obstinate filibuster. It can hardly pass the Senate unless cloture is voted. On this point the Senate Republican leader has told President Kennedy, that he is "for seven-eighths of the bill."

Being translated, this means that most of the Republicans will support cloture in the end. But they will only do so in the end, after a fruitless waste of many weeks to give the filibusters time to make a show.

Worse still, the eighth of the bill which Dirksen and the other middle-ground Republicans do not favor includes the sections on public accommodations and the Fair Employment Practices Commission. These sections may have to be jettisoned or gravely diluted in order to secure cloture.

The public accommodations section, particularly, has meanwhile become a symbol and touchstone of white America's willingness to accord equal rights to Negro America. Thus there is considerable danger that even after the interminable, needless, and inexcusable delays now in prospect, a satisfactory civil rights bill will not be voted.

If this sort of thing goes on much longer, there will also be considerable danger of a nationwide revolt against the persistent and increasing Congressional abuse of the legislative power, which is reaching the stage of ugly parody.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NATION STRONG — It is quite apparent, as it has been to some leaders for many years, that the problem of national continuity is more apparent than real. The question arises whenever tragedy strikes at the White House, but it is always answered the same way — by a demonstration of the strength of the national government and the Constitution.

Yet, it is popular for politicians and diplomats to talk in terms of a "moratorium" on attacks on the new administration, a sort of gesture of good sportsmanship, permitting a struck and fallen man to rise again before striking another blow.

In the normal course of events, no new administration needs more of a moratorium than falls its way as a natural consequence of change. Should a brand new administration be attacked by its political opposition, that opposition would be the sufferer in a national revulsion on the part of the electorate. Likewise, should a diplomatic attack occur on the part of another country, that country would suffer once true equilibrium is restored to the administration, usually a matter of a very few days.

Americans — some in positions of high leadership — imply in these gestures for a moratorium on partisan politics and on world diplomacy, that the nation's system is some kind of frail, hothouse flower. It isn't. It is a sturdy, mature creation that has proved its unique strength through all kinds of tragedies and alarms. It's time that Americans look upon their government as the grown-up man it is.

New Procedures In Brain Tumor Detection

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Tumors and other brain lesions are diagnosed in various ways. Several new procedures are being tried, including an improved radar machine. The instrument is held against the scalp and ultrasound waves are sent into the head. These echo from the opposite side of the skull and the time interval is noted. Since the normal pattern is known, a defect is suspected when the echoes are abnormal.

Radioisotopes are used to diagnose lesions of various organs, including the brain. There is a tendency for certain radioactive materials to concentrate in or about brain tumors, abscesses, and clots adjacent to the skull.

The isotope is injected into a vein, and 3 to 5 hours later the individual is placed in front of a scanning device. This instrument passes back and forth over the head and produces a record that shows whether the radioisotopes are scattered evenly or are localized in one area.

Scanning does not pick up all tumors — X-ray continues to be the most useful diagnostic tool. In some instances, air is injected into the spinal fluid (pneumoencephalogram) to visualize the ventricles of the brain. In others, a contrast solution is injected into the carotid artery and X-rays are taken almost simultaneously (angiography). They will show up changes in the blood vessels of the brain.

Important clues are obtained also from testing the spinal fluid, a physical examination, and an electroencephalogram. The latter records the brain waves, and abnormalities excite or depress the electrical activities.

The manifestations of brain tumors vary and depend upon the portion of the brain that is compressed or otherwise disturbed by the expanding new growth. Headache is the most frequent symptom. Others include nausea, visual disorders, convulsions, mental dullness, incoordination and muscle weakness, or paralysis.

SLIMMING DIET

C. M. writes: I would like to get back into shape with a sensible diet. What would you suggest?
REPLY
The best way, if your meals are now balanced, is to eat the same things but cut the portions in half. If you want to count calories or use a more formal reducing diet, send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflets on these subjects.

EXERCISE WON'T BRIGHTEN

H. S. writes: Would exercises that stimulate circulation have any stimulating effect on the brain and make the person smarter?
REPLY
No, and if they did, most of our athletes (including wrestlers and boxers) would be professors.

ALLERGIC TENDENCY

Mrs. L. writes: My son is allergic to wheat and dust. One of our neightbors said he probably will develop hay fever as he grows older. Is this likely?
REPLY
The tendency is in that direction. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on allergy.

PRESSURE AND SMOKING

D. H. writes: Should a person stop smoking if his blood pressure is only 92?
REPLY
Not for this reason.

NAVEL RUPTURE

Mrs. J. W. writes: Since my husband died, I've cried so much I think I have ruptured my navel. Will a binder help or do I need an operation?
REPLY
Take your choice but make certain of the diagnosis before you do anything.

IT COMES TO ALL

W. D. writes: Does anyone escape hardening of the arteries?
REPLY
Not if they live long enough.

THE WITHDRAWN TYPE

L. S. writes: Is a person born an introvert or does he acquire it?
REPLY
Some are born this way and the trait is noted early in chilhood. Others acquire the tendency as a result of early or later experiences.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

An out-of-work laborer in New Orleans decided to go North in search of a break. Lacking carfare, he chose his leaky old rowboat as a means of transportation. In his excitement he neglected to untie the rowboat rope from the dock.

He plied his oars faithfully all night, still securely tied to the dock. At dawn, a friend spied him and called, "Hi, there, Charlie!"

Charlie was visibly shaken. "My, my," he exclaimed. "Who knows me up here in New York?"

The Playing Fields

WINDSOR, ENGLAND

"There was no score in the annual St. Andrew's Day wall game played at Eton yesterday between the Collagers (scholarship boys) and the Oppidans (boys who pay the posh prep school's full fee). No goal has been scored in the match since 1909." So ran the Sunday Time's entire story. Well, they missed all the finer points. I'll fill you in.

The wall game is played nowhere else in the world except at Eton, on the playing fields of which, etc., etc. Eton was started in 1440 by Henry VI and has been turning small boys into Prime Ministers ever since. It's felt that, if a boy can survive Eton, he can survive anything—World War I, World War II, World War III, World War IV, World War V. . .

The wall game helps develop fortitude. Stamina. Patience. Unflappability. Resignation. Let me put the thing in lay terms. The ball (a special ball used in no other game) is placed against the wall. The wall falls on it. (No, stupid! The wall is a position, like left tackle.) The opponents' wall falls on him. The second wall of the first team falls on the opponents' wall and the second wall falls on him. The other players — the lines, the flys, and the longs — close in, at the ready. (Ready for what, for God's sake?) Ten yards back stand the officials in top hats, watching for fouls, misplays. (There haven't been any since Charles II, but you never know.) Somewhat closer stand two lynx-eyed journalists, scribbling away, getting down every detail. (What details?)

Standing back about 50 yards narrowly watching this packed mass of players lying on each other, playing their hearts out (winning the battle of Waterloo, and also World War I, World War II, World War III, World War IV, World War V) are a dense mass of mothers, fathers, brothers, old Etonians, sisters, sweethearts, not missing a single move. This isn't hard because there aren't any.

Steam rises from the bodies.

The wind blows. Hoarse grunts rent the air.

By great good fortune, I watched the wall game from the house of a tutor whose living room adjoins the wall. We were inside. Actually, I think it was warmer outside. It's considered very bad form to be warm at Eton. Small boys go through six years at Eton, shivering, getting ready to be Prime Minister, spurred by the thought there's probably a fireplace at 10 Downing Street.

"There's been a good deal of nepotism, I'm afraid," confided the tutor. "The boys pull a lot of strings."

I'll bet they do. I can just imagine every boy calling his uncle, the Prime Minister (every boy's uncle is either a Prime Minister or former Prime Minister or future Prime Minister) and saying, "For God's sake, uncle, get me out of this."

They'll do anything to get in there and play," said the tutor.

Oh. I had thought it was some sort of punishment. For skipping class or something. Not punishment. It's fun. Well, I suppose small boys will do anything — lie face down in freezing mud while someone else is trying to kick your teeth in—provided it's only once a year. "Oh, they play three times a week during the season," said the tutor. "I play myself. Been playing for ten years and I'm just getting the hang of it."

I watched the pile of motionless bodies. Get the hang of what? The tutor showed me three white lines at the end of the wall. That's where they'd score if anyone ever did. Barring a goal, you can always score a shy. They're pretty rare, too.

How about before 1909? "There was a riot of scoring in the last century," said the tutor. "Three, I think. Then they tightened up the defense."

Suddenly the ball shot out into the open.

"Oh-" gasped the tutor's wife. "How exciting! I've never seen the ball before."

She'd been attending games for 10 years. We were all paralyzed with astonishment. I thought, "My God! What a scoop! I'll see the first score since 1909. A guy ran out and touched the ball. That made it dead. The ball was returned to the wall. The wall fell on it. The other wall fell on him. The second wall fell on him. The other second wall fell on him. Steam arose. The journalists scribbled. The spectators were riveted with the wonder of it all. (Or maybe they were frozen to death.)

Well, it was a scoreless tie after all. But wait till next year.

Charles Vossler Is Promoted By Bonham Corp.

KEYSER — Charles Vossler, manager of the local plant of the Bonham Corporation, has been promoted to national sales manager for all Bonham athletic and playground products and will leave soon for his new assignment in Los Angeles.

Announcement came from Eldon L. Richardson, president of Bonham Corporation, who also revealed the combining of the manufacturing facilities located here and in Pomona, Calif., under one general management.

These previously independent organizations have been consolidated under the managership of A. Richard Allred, vice-president of the parent corporation. This move will enable the Bonham Corporation to supply customers on a national basis from the manufacturing plant nearest them.

Vossler, who has been manager of the Keyser plant for the past eight years, has announced new sales programs for an increased line of products "which will establish the Bonham name as the national leader in its field."

He plans to leave for his new job in early January. His wife and children will join him in California after schools are dismissed in June.

W.Va. Conference Called To Air Maple Production

KEYSER — Mountain State Maple Producers will hold their first conference on Thursday at Blackwater State Park, according to Emery L. Prunty, Mineral County Extension Agricultural Agent.

Highlighting the program will be a talk by D. C. O. Willits, head of Maple Investigations for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, who will discuss modern production and marketing of maple products.

Also featured on the program will be Robert Lamb, perfector of the plastic tubing system of tree-tapping, and Robert Bordeau, representing a distributor of maple sugaring equipment.

Prunty said the conference would be held from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and a panel discussion during the afternoon will provide an opportunity for the audience to raise questions for the guest speaker to answer.

"The production of high quality maple syrup is a good money-making enterprise. To capitalize on this resource, our people need to use modern labor-saving methods. The purpose of this initial conference is to explain the efficient, economic methods," Prunty said.

"With the opportunity of leasing trees from landowners and from the National Forest, the maple business is open to anybody—not just landowners. Anyone interested in profiting from maple products should plan to attend this meeting, he concluded.

Youth Arraigned In Burglary Of Service Station

KEYSER—A 12-year-old youth who resides on Route 46 has been released in the custody of his parents under $1,000 bond for action of the Mineral County Juvenile Court on a charge of breaking and entering Delmar Cook's Hilltop Service Station on the evening of November 29.

West Virginia State Police said the youth allegedly gained entry through a rear window of the store, also located on Route 46, and left with about $40 in cash, a quantity of candy bars, cigarets, pencils and a few other items valued at approximately $10. Some of the items were recovered but others, including a pocket watch, were unaccounted for.

The youth was arraigned on Saturday before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle.

Charles Vossler Is Promoted By Bonham Corp.

KEYSER — Charles Vossler, manager of the local plant of the Bonham Corporation, has been promoted to national sales manager for all Bonham athletic and playground products and will leave soon for his new assignment in Los Angeles.

Announcement came from Eldon L. Richardson, president of Bonham Corporation, who also revealed the combining of the manufacturing facilities located here and in Pomona, Calif., under one general management.

These previously independent organizations have been consolidated under the managership of A. Richard Allred, vice-president of the parent corporation. This move will enable the Bonham Corporation to supply customers on a national basis from the manufacturing plant nearest them.

Vossler, who has been manager of the Keyser plant for the past eight years, has announced new sales programs for an increased line of products "which will establish the Bonham name as the national leader in its field."

He plans to leave for his new job in early January. His wife and children will join him in California after schools are dismissed in June.

Elks Official To Visit Keyser

KEYSER—George May, Fairmont, District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler, will make his official visit to Keyser Lodge 1916, B.P.O. Elks today at the regular lodge meeting in the Elks Home on Center Street.

Exalted Ruler Willard Burns has asked that all officers and members join in extending a welcome to the District Deputy.

Plans Yule Party

LUKE — The Auxiliary of the Luke Volunteer Fire Company will hold a Christmas party today at the Community Center. A buffet supper will be served at 5:30 p. m.

W.Va. Conference Called To Air Maple Production

KEYSER — Mountain State Maple Producers will hold their first conference on Thursday at Blackwater State Park, according to Emery L. Prunty, Mineral County Extension Agricultural Agent.

Highlighting the program will be a talk by D. C. O. Willits, head of Maple Investigations for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, who will discuss modern production and marketing of maple products.

Also featured on the program will be Robert Lamb, perfector of the plastic tubing system of tree-tapping, and Robert Bordeau, representing a distributor of maple sugaring equipment.

Prunty said the conference would be held from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and a panel discussion during the afternoon will provide an opportunity for the audience to raise questions for the guest speaker to answer.

"The production of high quality maple syrup is a good money-making enterprise. To capitalize on this resource, our people need to use modern labor-saving methods. The purpose of this initial conference is to explain the efficient, economic methods," Prunty said.

"With the opportunity of leasing trees from landowners and from the National Forest, the maple business is open to anybody—not just landowners. Anyone interested in profiting from maple products should plan to attend this meeting, he concluded.

Youth Arraigned In Burglary Of Service Station

KEYSER—A 12-year-old youth who resides on Route 46 has been released in the custody of his parents under $1,000 bond for action of the Mineral County Juvenile Court on a charge of breaking and entering Delmar Cook's Hilltop Service Station on the evening of November 29.

West Virginia State Police said the youth allegedly gained entry through a rear window of the store, also located on Route 46, and left with about $40 in cash, a quantity of candy bars, cigarets, pencils and a few other items valued at approximately $10. Some of the items were recovered but others, including a pocket watch, were unaccounted for.

The youth was arraigned on Saturday before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle.

Ellerslie Lists Postal Schedule

ELLERSLIE—Post Office hours during the Christmas holidays at the Ellerslie Post Office will be the same as last season, according to Postmaster Charles E. Simpkins. Starting Monday, December 9 through Monday, December 23, window service will be from 8:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. except Sundays. Tuesday, December 24, regular window service will be resumed from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p.m.

Attend Funeral

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Gladys Johnson, Mechanic Street; Mrs. Andrea Smith, Railroad Street and Lawrence Bendle, Center Street, returned to their homes after attending the funeral of their father Thomas L. Bendle, Amsterdam, Ohio, who was killed last week in an automobile accident. While there they also visited with their mother Mrs. Ruth Thomas.

LaSalle Plays Beall Here, Fort Hill Invades Romney Tonight

Sentinels Open 28th Campaign In 647th Game

Eagles At Ridgeley, Lions Host Vikings, Valley At Southern

LaSalle High School's Explorers will play their first home game of the season tonight when they host the Beall High School Mountaineers at SS. Peter & Paul gym while the Fort Hill High School Sentinels make their 1963-64 debut by tackling the Romney High School Pioneers at Romney.

Coach George Geatz's Explorers kicked off the lid last week with a 59-55 decision over Fort Ashby while Prof. Edward "Ebbie" Finzel's Mountaineers handed the Piedmont High Lions a 59-53 setback.

Beall has capped four of its last six games with LaSalle, including 67-43 and 71-69 decisions last season, after having lost twelve consecutive games to the Explorers, an could be a leading contender for Potomac Valley Conference top honors this season.

Romney is a newcomer on the Fort Hill basketball schedule. In fact, this is Romney High School's last cage team because the consolidation with Capon Bridge into new Hampshire High School goes into effect next fall. Coach Don Peters' Pioneers have split even in their first two starts of the campaign, losing to Ridgeley 73-63 while trimming Fort Ashby, 72-64.

Play 647th Game

Fort Hill will be opening its 28th campaign tonight and will be playing its 647th game. Over 27 seasons the Sentinels have won 415 and lost 231 games under three different coaches. This is Jim Eckard's fifth year as head coach.

Out of a squad of 13 players, Vince Dela Grange, a 6-foot-3, 200-pounder, is the only regular retained from last season's team. Tom Hamilton, Howard Reynolds and Olin Perkins saw action last season. Rich Robinson, a senior, who figured in 15 games last season, is passing up basketball for indoor track this season. He is a track and football standout. Bill Dean, Del Proudfoot, Pat Wilson and Eugene Hare, all first stringers, were graduated.

In addition to the LaSalle-Beall game there are four other P.V.C. engagements on tap for tonight. Ridgeley (1-1) entertains Fort Ashby's Eagles (0-2) and Petersburg's Vikings with wins over Circleville and Mathias, invade Piedmont High School tonight. "Huck" Miers' Lions won over Elk Garden and lost to Beall in their first two outings. Bruce, victor over Northern last week, 80-41, will play host to Elk Garden tonight. Circleville's Indians visit Mathias.

Valley Hosts Southern

Valley High School's Black Knights, beaten by Keyser High last week, 55-49, play their first home game tonight, meeting the Southern Highlanders of Garrett county, who have lost their only start to Elk Garden, 74-71.

Oldtown, defeated by Paw Paw, 90-52 Friday, hosts a newcomer tonight in Salisbury, Pa., High School. The Pennsylvanians have made few appearances in Allegany county since the days when "Rip" Engle and the Lichliter Brothers starred for the Cardinals from Somerset county.

Aggies In Home Opener

Clear Spring High School of Washington county invades Allegany county to do battle with "Stony" Jackson's Flintstone High Aggies who dropped a 59-41 decision at Bedford Friday night.

Other schoolboy games on tap are Green Bank at Franklin, Hancock at Berkeley Springs, Hyndman at Berlin and Bedford at Rockwood.

Hyndman will be making its second start of the campaign, having lost to Meyersdale last week, 87-77.

Ten Football Greats Will Be Inducted Into Hall Of Fame

List Includes Tryon, Connor, Kavanaugh, Cliff Montgomery

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten new members, including three old-time football stars and seven modern players, will be inducted into the game's Hall of Fame by the National Football Foundation at its sixth annual awards dinner here Tuesday.

The modern Hall of Fame members to be honored include:

Al Agase of Illinois and Purdue guard, now line coach at Northwestern; George Connor, Holy Cross and Notre Dame tackle; Edwin Goat Hale, Mississippi College halfback; Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana State University end; Cliff Montgomery, Columbia quarterback; Henry Peter Pund, Georgia Tech center; Edward Tryon, Colgate halfback.

The old timers:

Thomas Bum McClung, Yale halfback who played in 1889-91 and scored more than 150 touchdowns and 1,000 points; Charles Buck Wharton, Penn guard who played in 1839-96 and later was a state senator in Delaware, and George Woodruff, who played at Yale and coached at Penn. He later became acting secretary of the interior, a U.S. federal judge and attorney general of Pennsylvania.

Potomac State Hopes To Shake Frostburg Jinx

Collegians Clash Tonight In Keyser

Potomac State College, featuring David Lawson, who is averaging 28 points a game this season, will be striving to shake a losing jinx in its series with Frostburg State College when the teams tangle tonight for the first time this season at Keser.

Coach Ron Van Ryswyk's Bobcats have won the last four games with the Catamounts, sweeping last season's set, 72-66 and 83-64, and the two games the previous year, 84-78 and 79-63, after having dropped six in a row to the Catamounts.

Tonight's game will be the fourth of the season for Coach "Horse" Lough's floormen and the second for the Mountain City quint. Potomac whipped Hagerstown J. C., 78-62, and Altoona Campus, 93-72, and lost to Johnstown Junior College, 95-85. F.S.C. trimmed Wheeling in its initial start Saturday night, 68-61.

Lawson, who hails from Masontown, joined the Catamounts after the season began in 1962-63 and posted a 15.3 point average. In three games this season the PSC jump shot artist has connected for 84 points on 36 field goals and mashed 12 of 15 free throws. Bill Wiltison, who is expected to be Frostburg's big point-maker this season, slammed in 28 tallies in the opener against Wheeling.

Potomac State hits the road this weekend, playing at Charles College and Prince Georges College Friday and Saturday nights. Frostburg visits Townson State Friday and Bowie Saturday.

Lambert Trophy Goes To Navy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Navy, with a 9-1 record, Monday was named winner of the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern college football supremacy.

The Middies received six of the eight votes cast by a committee of coaches, writers and broadcasters. Navy, which lost only to Southern Methodist during the regular season, had a 9.7 rating. The Middies will play Texas in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

Pittsburgh, which lost only to Navy in 10 games, was second with 9.3. Syracuse (8-2) was third with 7.4 followed by Army (7-3) and 7.1 Penn State (7-3) was fifth with 6.6.

The second five consisted of Dartmouth (4.8), Princeton (4.1), Massachusetts (2.4), Harvard (1.8) and Boston College (1.4).

Knight, Grafton High Grad, Named To Hall Of Fame

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—John J. Knight, former coach and now athletic director at Bethany (W. Va.) College, is one of six coaches and athletes named Monday to the Hall of Fame of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

Knight, who served as NAIA president in 1959-60, completed 33 years of football coaching last year and now devotes full time to serving as Bethany director of Athletics, a post he also has held since 1933.

Knight was a 1919 graduate of Grafton High School and taught at Weston and Wheeling High Schools after graduating from W. Va. Wesleyan in 1924.

His football teams at Bethany won championships in two of the three leagues in which they participated.

8,335 Persons Paid $9,798 To See Turkey Day Contest

Schools Split 50-50, Each Get $3,903.87

A total of 8,335 persons paid a gross of $9,798.00 to witness the C.V.A. League and city championship football game between Fort Hill and Allegany on Thanksgiving Day, it was announced yesterday.

Gate receipts and attendance topped the 1962 totals of 6,879 and $8,112. A year ago each school received $3,210 each after expenses were deducted. Each school's share this year was $3,903.87.

Attenadance was higher at two previous games — in 1948 when there were 9,792 payees and in 1960 when 8,656 persons viewed the game at the local stadium. Gate receipts were also higher in those years — $10,754 in 1948 and $10,166.50 in 1960.

The schools got only $3,216 in 1948 after federal taxes and other expenses but they hit the jackpot in 1960 when the share of each amounted to $3,997.90.

In 1948 Allegany and Fort Hill went into the Turkey Day game with 9-0 records and played to a 6-6 deadlock. Three years ago the teams were again undefeated prior to the big game and Allegany won 21-0 to windup its schedule with 10-0 record. This year Fort Hill was 9-0 and Allegany 7-2 going into the final game, the Sentinels won 7-0 and wound up with 10-0.

Jack Dempsey Not Certain He Was Doped

Comments On Story In Alabama Paper

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) —Former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey declared Monday night he doesn't know "to this day" whether he was or wasn't doped at the time of his first title fight with Gene Tunney at Philadelphia, Sept. 23, 1926.

He added: "I didn't feel sick before the fight. But I felt terribly sick after it. And the doctor who examined me at Atlantic City—I believe it was—said I looked as if I'd been given a Mickey Finn."

The 68-year - old Manassa Mauler added: "If it was a Mickey I'd had, I'm sure Tunney had nothing to do with it. As a matter of fact, if Gene had been given a Mickey before the fight, he probably could have beaten me that night, anyway."

Comments On Story

Dempsey, appearing at the Minneapolis Boy's Club Monday night, made his comments about the Tunney fight — 37 years ago—in reply to questions concerning a story printed Monday in the Birmingham (Ala.) News.

Sports Editor Benny Marshall said in the News that Dempsey had told him he had lost his title to Tunney because he was drugged.

Marshall said the drug was placed in a cup of coffee by a person known to Dempsey and made the champion too sick to fight. The name of the person was not revealed.

Marshall said Dempsey had never before permitted the story to be told but that it had come out during a recent visit to Dempsey's New York restaurant by Marshall and Atlanta (Ga.) restaurant owner Harvey Hester.

In Minneapolis Monday night, Dempsey explained that Harvey Hester was a long - time friend of his who had been at Jack's 1926 training camps at Hendersonville, N.C., and Atlantic City before the Tunney fight.

"Well," continued Dempsey, "when Hester and Sports Editor Marshall visited me at my New York restaurant recently, and we all had a bit of refreshment, Hester began telling Marshall about my training for the fight and he mentioned something about my illness.

"I wasn't paying too close attention to what was being said because some guests were coming to the table, now and then, for autographs. And I never thought any more about it until I heard of the Marshall column today. He wrote it in good faith, I'm sure; but I'm sorry it's digging up an incident that happened nearly 40 years ago."

The Birmingham story stressed that Dempsey had been given the drug in his breakfast coffee at his Atlantic City camp, and that it made him violently sick long before the fight in the rain that night in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

Not Ill Before Match

Monday night Dempsey emphasized he had not felt ill before the 10-round bout in which he took a thorough licking from ex-Marine Tunney and lost his title.

Jack tried to recapture the crown from Gene at Chicago, Sept. 22, 1927, but again lost a 10-round decision in their historic "battle of the long-count" at Soldiers' Field.

Chicago Loyola Heads UPI Basketball Ratings

Duke Is Runner-up, NYU Third; Bearcats Drop To 5th Place

By SANDY PADWE
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Loyola of Chicago retained its familiar number one position Monday in the weekly United Press International basketball ratings, but Duke and New York University were this week's real opportunists.

Duke and NYU tied for third place last week in balloting by the 35 members of the UPI coached board, took advantage of Cincinnati's 51-47 loss to Kansas to edge upward in this week's poll.

Wichita, ranked fifth last week, suffered two losses which helped scramble the weekly ratings even more.

Loyola Wins Twice

Loyola, victor over North Dakota and Kent State last week, received 32 of the 35 first place votes cast and wound up with 336 points, exactly the same total as last week.

Duke, which won the West Virginia Centennial Tournament last weekend by defeating Ohio State and the host Mountaineers, had one first place vote and 277 points.

NYU, meanwhile, defeated Cornell 82-55, and Tulsa 99-76, to receive two first place votes and 271 points.

Arizona State moved into fourth place from sixth with 207 points after beating Wichita 93-87, last Saturday. The Wheatshockers had lost to Texas Western earlier in the week and dropped to 12th place.

Michigan, which has looked impressive in its three victories this season, was ranked fifth with 130 points. The Wolverines were eighth last week.

Bearcats Drop To 5th

Cincinnati dropped from second to fifth following the 51-47 loss to Kansas. It was Cincinnati's first home loss in 90 games.

Kentucky, 11th last week, moved into a tie with Oregon State for seventh place. The Wildcats (3-0) and Oregon State (4-0) both had 86 points.

Texas moved up one spot to ninth place with 71 points and a 3-0 record. Ohio State, which lost to Duke 76-75 in the opening round of the West Virginia tournament, dropped from seventh to tenth with 43 points and a 3-1 record.

Kansas' upset win over Cincinnati moved the Jayhawkers into 11th place with 42 points, one behind Ohio State. Last week Kansas received one point.

The remainder of the second ten, in order, were Wichita, San Francisco, UCLA, Villanova, Vanderbilt, Minnesota, Stanford, Kansas State and Oklahoma State.

Television Coverage Expanded For Sunday Pro League Battles

NEW YORK (AP)—Television coverage of the two big National Football League games Sunday, the Giants-Steelers and Bears-Lions, have been expanded, CBS announced Monday.

The Giants-Pittsburgh game at New York, which will settle the Eastern title, will be sent to 124 stations in the East, South and Southwest and part of the Midwest.

The rest of the Midwest, Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast areas will get the Bears-Detroit game at Chicago, on 83 stations. That game should decide the Western title.

Only stations in the four home cities will carry the other four NFL Sunday games. These will be the home city stations for the visiting teams in the Minneapolis at Philadelphia, Dallas at St. Louis, Cleveland at Washington and Los Angeles at Baltimore games.

The regular blackout will prevail in the home areas of the six games.

West Virginia Cagers To Play Spiders Tonight

Richmond Quint At Morgantown

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (UPI) —Southern Conference opponent Richmond will be here Tuesday night to match skills with the West Virginia University basketball team and Coach George King is looking forward to the game.

King said the contest with Richmond could very well tell whether the sophomore-studded Mountaineer five has jelled after meeting tough opposition over the past weekend in the Centennial Classic tourney.

"What will happen as far as our sophomores are concerned will be shown Tuesday," King said, adding he was "very pleased" in their loss to Duke in the tournament finals last Saturday night.

The coach also indicated he can face the remainder of the schedule with a little "less apprehension" after the Mountaineers' weekend performance.

Richmond is not particularly strong this season, lacking a big scorer and bench strength. The Spiders lost to Virginia Tech in the season's opener, whipped East Carolina in the next encounter and lost to the University of Virginia the last time out 91-71.

LaSalle Plays Beall Here, Fort Hill Invades Romney Tonight

Sentinels Open 28th Campaign In 647th Game

Eagles At Ridgeley, Lions Host Vikings, Valley At Southern

LaSalle High School's Explorers will play their first home game of the season tonight when they host the Beall High School Mountaineers at SS. Peter & Paul gym while the Fort Hill High School Sentinels make their 1963-64 debut by tackling the Romney High School Pioneers at Romney.

Coach George Geatz's Explorers kicked off the lid last week with a 59-55 decision over Fort Ashby while Prof. Edward "Ebbie" Finzel's Mountaineers handed the Piedmont High Lions a 59-53 setback.

Beall has capped four of its last six games with LaSalle, including 67-43 and 71-69 decisions last season, after having lost twelve consecutive games to the Explorers, an could be a leading contender for Potomac Valley Conference top honors this season.

Romney is a newcomer on the Fort Hill basketball schedule. In fact, this is Romney High School's last cage team because the consolidation with Capon Bridge into new Hampshire High School goes into effect next fall. Coach Don Peters' Pioneers have split even in their first two starts of the campaign, losing to Ridgeley 73-63 while trimming Fort Ashby, 72-64.

Play 647th Game

Fort Hill will be opening its 28th campaign tonight and will be playing its 647th game. Over 27 seasons the Sentinels have won 415 and lost 231 games under three different coaches. This is Jim Eckard's fifth year as head coach.

Out of a squad of 13 players, Vince Dela Grange, a 6-foot-3, 200-pounder, is the only regular retained from last season's team. Tom Hamilton, Howard Reynolds and Olin Perkins saw action last season. Rich Robinson, a senior, who figured in 15 games last season, is passing up basketball for indoor track this season. He is a track and football standout. Bill Dean, Del Proudfoot, Pat Wilson and Eugene Hare, all first stringers, were graduated.

In addition to the LaSalle-Beall game there are four other P.V.C. engagements on tap for tonight. Ridgeley (1-1) entertains Fort Ashby's Eagles (0-2) and Petersburg's Vikings with wins over Circleville and Mathias, invade Piedmont High School tonight. "Huck" Miers' Lions won over Elk Garden and lost to Beall in their first two outings. Bruce, victor over Northern last week, 80-41, will play host to Elk Garden tonight. Circleville's Indians visit Mathias.

Valley Hosts Southern

Valley High School's Black Knights, beaten by Keyser High last week, 55-49, play their first home game tonight, meeting the Southern Highlanders of Garrett county, who have lost their only start to Elk Garden, 74-71.

Oldtown, defeated by Paw Paw, 90-52 Friday, hosts a newcomer tonight in Salisbury, Pa., High School. The Pennsylvanians have made few appearances in Allegany county since the days when "Rip" Engle and the Lichliter Brothers starred for the Cardinals from Somerset county.

Aggies In Home Opener

Clear Spring High School of Washington county invades Allegany county to do battle with "Stony" Jackson's Flintstone High Aggies who dropped a 59-41 decision at Bedford Friday night.

Other schoolboy games on tap are Green Bank at Franklin, Hancock at Berkeley Springs, Hyndman at Berlin and Bedford at Rockwood.

Hyndman will be making its second start of the campaign, having lost to Meyersdale last week, 87-77.

Ten Football Greats Will Be Inducted Into Hall Of Fame

List Includes Tryon, Connor, Kavanaugh, Cliff Montgomery

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten new members, including three old-time football stars and seven modern players, will be inducted into the game's Hall of Fame by the National Football Foundation at its sixth annual awards dinner here Tuesday.

The modern Hall of Fame members to be honored include:

Al Agase of Illinois and Purdue guard, now line coach at Northwestern; George Connor, Holy Cross and Notre Dame tackle; Edwin Goat Hale, Mississippi College halfback; Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana State University end; Cliff Montgomery, Columbia quarterback; Henry Peter Pund, Georgia Tech center; Edward Tryon, Colgate halfback.

The old timers:

Thomas Bum McClung, Yale halfback who played in 1889-91 and scored more than 150 touchdowns and 1,000 points; Charles Buck Wharton, Penn guard who played in 1839-96 and later was a state senator in Delaware, and George Woodruff, who played at Yale and coached at Penn. He later became acting secretary of the interior, a U.S. federal judge and attorney general of Pennsylvania.

Potomac State Hopes To Shake Frostburg Jinx

Collegians Clash Tonight In Keyser

Potomac State College, featuring David Lawson, who is averaging 28 points a game this season, will be striving to shake a losing jinx in its series with Frostburg State College when the teams tangle tonight for the first time this season at Keser.

Coach Ron Van Ryswyk's Bobcats have won the last four games with the Catamounts, sweeping last season's set, 72-66 and 83-64, and the two games the previous year, 84-78 and 79-63, after having dropped six in a row to the Catamounts.

Tonight's game will be the fourth of the season for Coach "Horse" Lough's floormen and the second for the Mountain City quint. Potomac whipped Hagerstown J. C., 78-62, and Altoona Campus, 93-72, and lost to Johnstown Junior College, 95-85. F.S.C. trimmed Wheeling in its initial start Saturday night, 68-61.

Lawson, who hails from Masontown, joined the Catamounts after the season began in 1962-63 and posted a 15.3 point average. In three games this season the PSC jump shot artist has connected for 84 points on 36 field goals and mashed 12 of 15 free throws. Bill Wiltison, who is expected to be Frostburg's big point-maker this season, slammed in 28 tallies in the opener against Wheeling.

Potomac State hits the road this weekend, playing at Charles College and Prince Georges College Friday and Saturday nights. Frostburg visits Townson State Friday and Bowie Saturday.

Lambert Trophy Goes To Navy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Navy, with a 9-1 record, Monday was named winner of the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern college football supremacy.

The Middies received six of the eight votes cast by a committee of coaches, writers and broadcasters. Navy, which lost only to Southern Methodist during the regular season, had a 9.7 rating. The Middies will play Texas in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

Pittsburgh, which lost only to Navy in 10 games, was second with 9.3. Syracuse (8-2) was third with 7.4 followed by Army (7-3) and 7.1 Penn State (7-3) was fifth with 6.6.

The second five consisted of Dartmouth (4.8), Princeton (4.1), Massachusetts (2.4), Harvard (1.8) and Boston College (1.4).

Knight, Grafton High Grad, Named To Hall Of Fame

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—John J. Knight, former coach and now athletic director at Bethany (W. Va.) College, is one of six coaches and athletes named Monday to the Hall of Fame of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

Knight, who served as NAIA president in 1959-60, completed 33 years of football coaching last year and now devotes full time to serving as Bethany director of Athletics, a post he also has held since 1933.

Knight was a 1919 graduate of Grafton High School and taught at Weston and Wheeling High Schools after graduating from W. Va. Wesleyan in 1924.

His football teams at Bethany won championships in two of the three leagues in which they participated.

8,335 Persons Paid $9,798 To See Turkey Day Contest

Schools Split 50-50, Each Get $3,903.87

A total of 8,335 persons paid a gross of $9,798.00 to witness the C.V.A. League and city championship football game between Fort Hill and Allegany on Thanksgiving Day, it was announced yesterday.

Gate receipts and attendance topped the 1962 totals of 6,879 and $8,112. A year ago each school received $3,210 each after expenses were deducted. Each school's share this year was $3,903.87.

Attenadance was higher at two previous games — in 1948 when there were 9,792 payees and in 1960 when 8,656 persons viewed the game at the local stadium. Gate receipts were also higher in those years — $10,754 in 1948 and $10,166.50 in 1960.

The schools got only $3,216 in 1948 after federal taxes and other expenses but they hit the jackpot in 1960 when the share of each amounted to $3,997.90.

In 1948 Allegany and Fort Hill went into the Turkey Day game with 9-0 records and played to a 6-6 deadlock. Three years ago the teams were again undefeated prior to the big game and Allegany won 21-0 to windup its schedule with 10-0 record. This year Fort Hill was 9-0 and Allegany 7-2 going into the final game, the Sentinels won 7-0 and wound up with 10-0.

Jack Dempsey Not Certain He Was Doped

Comments On Story In Alabama Paper

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) —Former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey declared Monday night he doesn't know "to this day" whether he was or wasn't doped at the time of his first title fight with Gene Tunney at Philadelphia, Sept. 23, 1926.

He added: "I didn't feel sick before the fight. But I felt terribly sick after it. And the doctor who examined me at Atlantic City—I believe it was—said I looked as if I'd been given a Mickey Finn."

The 68-year - old Manassa Mauler added: "If it was a Mickey I'd had, I'm sure Tunney had nothing to do with it. As a matter of fact, if Gene had been given a Mickey before the fight, he probably could have beaten me that night, anyway."

Comments On Story

Dempsey, appearing at the Minneapolis Boy's Club Monday night, made his comments about the Tunney fight — 37 years ago—in reply to questions concerning a story printed Monday in the Birmingham (Ala.) News.

Sports Editor Benny Marshall said in the News that Dempsey had told him he had lost his title to Tunney because he was drugged.

Marshall said the drug was placed in a cup of coffee by a person known to Dempsey and made the champion too sick to fight. The name of the person was not revealed.

Marshall said Dempsey had never before permitted the story to be told but that it had come out during a recent visit to Dempsey's New York restaurant by Marshall and Atlanta (Ga.) restaurant owner Harvey Hester.

In Minneapolis Monday night, Dempsey explained that Harvey Hester was a long - time friend of his who had been at Jack's 1926 training camps at Hendersonville, N.C., and Atlantic City before the Tunney fight.

"Well," continued Dempsey, "when Hester and Sports Editor Marshall visited me at my New York restaurant recently, and we all had a bit of refreshment, Hester began telling Marshall about my training for the fight and he mentioned something about my illness.

"I wasn't paying too close attention to what was being said because some guests were coming to the table, now and then, for autographs. And I never thought any more about it until I heard of the Marshall column today. He wrote it in good faith, I'm sure; but I'm sorry it's digging up an incident that happened nearly 40 years ago."

The Birmingham story stressed that Dempsey had been given the drug in his breakfast coffee at his Atlantic City camp, and that it made him violently sick long before the fight in the rain that night in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

Not Ill Before Match

Monday night Dempsey emphasized he had not felt ill before the 10-round bout in which he took a thorough licking from ex-Marine Tunney and lost his title.

Jack tried to recapture the crown from Gene at Chicago, Sept. 22, 1927, but again lost a 10-round decision in their historic "battle of the long-count" at Soldiers' Field.

Chicago Loyola Heads UPI Basketball Ratings

Duke Is Runner-up, NYU Third; Bearcats Drop To 5th Place

By SANDY PADWE
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Loyola of Chicago retained its familiar number one position Monday in the weekly United Press International basketball ratings, but Duke and New York University were this week's real opportunists.

Duke and NYU tied for third place last week in balloting by the 35 members of the UPI coached board, took advantage of Cincinnati's 51-47 loss to Kansas to edge upward in this week's poll.

Wichita, ranked fifth last week, suffered two losses which helped scramble the weekly ratings even more.

Loyola Wins Twice

Loyola, victor over North Dakota and Kent State last week, received 32 of the 35 first place votes cast and wound up with 336 points, exactly the same total as last week.

Duke, which won the West Virginia Centennial Tournament last weekend by defeating Ohio State and the host Mountaineers, had one first place vote and 277 points.

NYU, meanwhile, defeated Cornell 82-55, and Tulsa 99-76, to receive two first place votes and 271 points.

Arizona State moved into fourth place from sixth with 207 points after beating Wichita 93-87, last Saturday. The Wheatshockers had lost to Texas Western earlier in the week and dropped to 12th place.

Michigan, which has looked impressive in its three victories this season, was ranked fifth with 130 points. The Wolverines were eighth last week.

Bearcats Drop To 5th

Cincinnati dropped from second to fifth following the 51-47 loss to Kansas. It was Cincinnati's first home loss in 90 games.

Kentucky, 11th last week, moved into a tie with Oregon State for seventh place. The Wildcats (3-0) and Oregon State (4-0) both had 86 points.

Texas moved up one spot to ninth place with 71 points and a 3-0 record. Ohio State, which lost to Duke 76-75 in the opening round of the West Virginia tournament, dropped from seventh to tenth with 43 points and a 3-1 record.

Kansas' upset win over Cincinnati moved the Jayhawkers into 11th place with 42 points, one behind Ohio State. Last week Kansas received one point.

The remainder of the second ten, in order, were Wichita, San Francisco, UCLA, Villanova, Vanderbilt, Minnesota, Stanford, Kansas State and Oklahoma State.

Television Coverage Expanded For Sunday Pro League Battles

NEW YORK (AP)—Television coverage of the two big National Football League games Sunday, the Giants-Steelers and Bears-Lions, have been expanded, CBS announced Monday.

The Giants-Pittsburgh game at New York, which will settle the Eastern title, will be sent to 124 stations in the East, South and Southwest and part of the Midwest.

The rest of the Midwest, Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast areas will get the Bears-Detroit game at Chicago, on 83 stations. That game should decide the Western title.

Only stations in the four home cities will carry the other four NFL Sunday games. These will be the home city stations for the visiting teams in the Minneapolis at Philadelphia, Dallas at St. Louis, Cleveland at Washington and Los Angeles at Baltimore games.

The regular blackout will prevail in the home areas of the six games.

West Virginia Cagers To Play Spiders Tonight

Richmond Quint At Morgantown

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (UPI) —Southern Conference opponent Richmond will be here Tuesday night to match skills with the West Virginia University basketball team and Coach George King is looking forward to the game.

King said the contest with Richmond could very well tell whether the sophomore-studded Mountaineer five has jelled after meeting tough opposition over the past weekend in the Centennial Classic tourney.

"What will happen as far as our sophomores are concerned will be shown Tuesday," King said, adding he was "very pleased" in their loss to Duke in the tournament finals last Saturday night.

The coach also indicated he can face the remainder of the schedule with a little "less apprehension" after the Mountaineers' weekend performance.

Richmond is not particularly strong this season, lacking a big scorer and bench strength. The Spiders lost to Virginia Tech in the season's opener, whipped East Carolina in the next encounter and lost to the University of Virginia the last time out 91-71.

Coach Of State Cage Champions To Get Plaque

1962-63 Campers Also Copped City And WMIL Titles

Chester G. Payne, head coach of basketball at Allegany High School, whose Campers won the Maryland state Class A championship in March at College Park, will be presented a plaque for special achievement at the 16th annual dinner of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club, Sunday, January 12 at St. Mary's Church Hall.

Chester G. Payne

Payne, a native of Bridgeport, W. Va., has coached Allegany High quints for the past six years after starting out as football coach at the Campobello school in 1956. Over six campaigns his teams have won 86 and lost 48 games and he has had a winning quint every year since he took over the reins at Campobello.

Allegany's 1962-63 team won the city championship with a 4-0 record, swept through ten games in the W.M.I. League for the first undefeated quint in that circuit since 1952, and went on to win the state Class A crown by disposing of Westminster 62-43, Fairmont Heights 61-58 and Springbrook 57-39. The Campers won their last 12 games of the season and finished with a 20-4 record.

Since Payne became basketball coach at Allegany the records of his team have been as follows: 12-9, 12-10, 16-8, 14-8, 12-10 and 20-4.

This is Payne's 19th year as a high school coach. He started his coaching career at Richwood, W. Va., High School where he spent one year. He tutored teams at Widen High School for five years and was at Ridgeley High School for four years before moving to Allegany. This is his ninth year at Allegany, two as grid mentor and his seventh as basketball tutor.

The Allegany coach is the second tri-state area sports personality named to receive a special achievement award at next month's dinner. Dana G. "Horse" Lough, athletic director, and coach of basketball and football at Potomac State College, was selected by the executive board of the Dapper Dans last week.

Challenge Of AFL Rejected By NFL

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League issued a new challenge Monday for a "championship game" between the winner of his league and the National Football League winner after the 1964 season.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle promptly replied that the older league has "no plans for such a game."

Navy Takes Orders For Cotton Bowl Contest Tickets

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Cotton Bowl bound Navy will take a week off to recuperate from Saturday's bruising battle with Army before resuming practice for a New Year's Day clash with Texas.

Meanwhile the academy began taking orders for tickets to the Cotton Bowl.

Tickets for the game between the nation's top two teams will cost $5.50 each. Requests for tickets should be sent to the Naval Academy Athletic Association with a check covering the cost of tickets and a 40 cent mailing charge.

Practices next week will be held at the academy, a spokesman said. A decision on when to go to Dallas for work outs will be made later, depending on the weather in Maryland.

Celts Lose Jones With Leg Injury

BOSTON (UPI) —The Boston Celtics, who are making a shambles of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division while hunting their sixth straight playoff crown, Monday lost veteran guard Sam Jones to a leg injury.

Jones, Boston's top scorer this season, had earlier in the day been reported recovered from an injury near the right ankle.

But in a practice session Monday, Jones injured his right thigh and club officials said it was doubtful he would be ready for action when the Celtics play at New York Tuesday night.

Boston, with a 17-2 record and a ten-game lost column edge on both Cincinnati and Philadelphia, returns to its home court Wednesday night to meet the St. Louis Hawks.

At that time, the Celtics will be putting a home court pace of nine straight on the line. In fact, the Celtics haven't been beaten in regular season play at Boston Garden since last February — running 15 straight since that time.

Gunners Kill 11 Deer In Allegany, 4-Day Total 610

Gunners bagged only eleven deer in Allegany county yesterday, upping the total to 610 for the first four days of the nine-day season which ends Saturday.

The total is seven above the 603 slain during the first four days of the 7-day season one year ago.

The LaVale barracks of the Maryland State Police checked five whitetails, Hess Service Station at Oldtown four and Shipway's at Green Ridge two during the day.

Jake's Service Station, Westernport, checked only two deer yesterday and both were bagged in Garrett county.

Three Washington county stations did not check any deer kills from Allegany county yesterday but they reported ten bucks were killed in their own county. Don Thompson at Clear Spring checked six, Huffman's Inn, Sideling Mountain, four, and Lowell Yonker, Hancock, one. The State Police at LaVale yesterday examined one deer brought down in Garrett county.

Sugar Ray Wins Bout In Paris

6,000 See Robinson Decision Vanucci

PARIS (AP)—Old Sugar Ray Robinson added another scalp to his record Monday night by pounding out a bloody 10-round decision over Armand Vanucci before a sellout crowd of 6,000 fans in the Palais Des Sports. Robinson weighed 160½ pounds and Vanucci 157½.

This was the second 10-round decision in two months for Robinson over the stocky Corsican, who works full time guarding the Mona Lisa painting in the Louvre Museum.

Robinson was in command from the opening bell, firing salvos that frequently shook but never knocked down the game Corsican.

Under French rules, the cards for the referee and two judges were not announced. The Associated Press gave Vanucci only one round—the wild fourth when the Corsican shook Robinson with two vicious right hands to the head.

Baltimore Places Hogue On Waivers

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets announced Monday that center Paul Hogue has been placed on waivers.

The 6-foot-9 National Basketball Association player had averaged 1.9 points in 14 games this season. Hogue was acquired from the New York Knickerbockers along with guard Gene Shue in exchange for center Bill McGill.

Hogue formally starred at the University of Cincinnati.

Coach Of State Cage Champions To Get Plaque

Chester G. Payne

Chester G. Payne, head coach of basketball at Allegany High School, whose Campers won the Maryland state Class A championship in March at College Park, will be presented a plaque for special achievement at the 16th annual dinner of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club, Sunday, January 12 at St. Mary's Church Hall.

Payne, a native of Bridgeport, W. Va., has coached Allegany High quints for the past six years after starting out as football coach at the Campobello school in 1956. Over six campaigns his teams have won 86 and lost 48 games and he has had a winning quint every year since he took over the reins at Campobello.

Allegany's 1962-63 team won the city championship with a 4-0 record, swept through ten games in the W.M.I. League for the first undefeated quint in that circuit since 1952, and went on to win the state Class A crown by disposing of Westminster 62-43, Fairmont Heights 61-58 and Springbrook 57-39. The Campers won their last 12 games of the season and finished with a 20-4 record.

Since Payne became basketball coach at Allegany the records of his team have been as follows: 12-9, 12-10, 16-8, 14-8, 12-10 and 20-4.

This is Payne's 19th year as a high school coach. He started his coaching career at Richwood, W. Va., High School where he spent one year. He tutored teams at Widen High School for five years and was at Ridgeley High School for four years before moving to Allegany. This is his ninth year at Allegany, two as grid mentor and his seventh as basketball tutor.

The Allegany coach is the second tri-state area sports personality named to receive a special achievement award at next month's dinner. Dana G. "Horse" Lough, athletic director, and coach of basketball and football at Potomac State College, was selected by the executive board of the Dapper Dans last week.

Challenge Of AFL Rejected By NFL

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League issued a new challenge Monday for a "championship game" between the winner of his league and the National Football League winner after the 1964 season.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle promptly replied that the older league has "no plans for such a game."

Celts Lose Jones With Leg Injury

BOSTON (UPI) —The Boston Celtics, who are making a shambles of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division while hunting their sixth straight playoff crown, Monday lost veteran guard Sam Jones to a leg injury.

Jones, Boston's top scorer this season, had earlier in the day been reported recovered from an injury near the right ankle.

But in a practice session Monday, Jones injured his right thigh and club officials said it was doubtful he would be ready for action when the Celtics play at New York Tuesday night.

Boston, with a 17-2 record and a ten-game lost column edge on both Cincinnati and Philadelphia, returns to its home court Wednesday night to meet the St. Louis Hawks.

At that time, the Celtics will be putting a home court pace of nine straight on the line. In fact, the Celtics haven't been beaten in regular season play at Boston Garden since last February — running 15 straight since that time.

Navy Takes Orders For Cotton Bowl Contest Tickets

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Cotton-Bowl bound Navy will take a week off to recuperate from Saturday's bruising battle with Army before resuming practice for a New Year's Day clash with Texas.

Meanwhile the academy began taking orders for tickets to the Cotton Bowl.

Tickets for the game between the nation's top two teams will cost $5.50 each. Requests for tickets should be sent to the Naval Academy Athletic Association with a check covering the cost of tickets and a 40 cent mailing charge.

Practices next week will be held at the academy, a spokesman said. A decision on when to go to Dallas for work outs will be made later, depending on the weather in Maryland.

Gunners Kill 11 Deer In Allegany, 4-Day Total 610

Gunners bagged only eleven deer in Allegany county yesterday, upping the total to 610 for the first four days of the nine-day season which ends Saturday.

The total is seven above the 603 slain during the first four days of the 7-day season one year ago.

The LaVale barracks of the Maryland State Police checked five whitetails, Hess Service Station at Oldtown four and Shipway's at Green Ridge two during the day.

Jake's Service Station, Westernport, checked only two deer yesterday and both were bagged in Garrett county.

Three Washington county stations did not check any deer kills from Allegany county yesterday but they reported ten bucks were killed in their own county. Don Thompson at Clear Spring checked six, Huffman's Inn, Sideling Mountain, four, and Lowell Yonker, Hancock, one. The State Police at LaVale yesterday examined one deer brought down in Garrett county.

Sugar Ray Wins Bout In Paris

6,000 See Robinson Decision Vanucci

PARIS (AP)—Old Sugar Ray Robinson added another scalp to his record Monday night by pounding out a bloody 10-round decision over Armand Vanucci before a sellout crowd of 6,000 fans in the Palais Des Sports. Robinson weighed 160½ pounds and Vanucci 157½.

This was the second 10-round decision in two months for Robinson over the stocky Corsican, who works full time guarding the Mona Lisa painting in the Louvre Museum.

Robinson was in command from the opening bell, firing salvos that frequently shook but never knocked down the game Corsican.

Under French rules, the cards for the referee and two judges were not announced. The Associated Press gave Vanucci only one round—the wild fourth when the Corsican shook Robinson with two vicious right hands to the head.

Baltimore Places Hogue On Waivers

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets announced Monday that center Paul Hogue has been placed on waivers.

The 6-foot-9 National Basketball Association player had averaged 1.9 points in 14 games this season. Hogue was acquired from the New York Knickerbockers along with guard Gene Shue in exchange for center Bill McGill.

Hogue formally starred at the University of Cincinnati.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all those who were so kind to us at the time of the death of our wife and mother, Helen L. Anderson. We especially thank Rev. Shoemaker, the pallbearers, relatives, friends, neighbors and those who donated their services, flowers, food, cars and prayers and all of the kindness during the loss of our loved one.

Mr. Dick Anderson & Family

Opposes Merger

NEW YORK (UPI)—Financier Allan P. Kirby said Monday he is out to block the proposed merger of the Missouri Pacific and the Texas & Pacific Railroads. Kirby charged that the proposed merger is in effect a recapitalization of the MOPAC that would greatly dilute the equity of Alleghany Corp., which Kirby controls, in the Missouri Pacific.

Awarded Contract

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Douglas Aircraft Company's Tulsa Division has been awarded a $500,000 contract by Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. to fabricate spacecraft fairings to protect the Gemini docking adapter during booster flight, it was announced Monday.

Three Fined For Shoplifting

Three persons were convicted of shoplifting yesterday in Frostburg Trial Magistrate Court and were fined and given suspended 30-day jail sentences.

Magistrate Edward Flanigan fined Mrs. Barbara Friend, of Deep Creek Lake, $50 and costs and suspended a 30-day jail sentence. She was also ordered to pay approximately $13 for merchandise she was accused of taking from the Miracle Mart, National Highway.

Fines of $20 each and suspended 30-day sentences were imposed on two Baltimore residents, also charged with shoplifting at the Miracle Mart.

The magistrate also ordered the pair, Mrs. Sylvia Arbogast, and Mrs. Daisy Long, both of Baltimore, to pay approximately $15 for the merchandise.

Magistrate Flanigan cautioned that the state law permits fines of up to $100 and prison terms of up to 18 months for shoplifters.

enough and Dartmouth did not accept me. My father made it plain I had let the whole family down. I was so despondent I considered suicide.

Our minister who had known me since childhood sensed my trouble. I credit him with saving my sanity and giving me the courage to go on. He suggested a small college in Indiana, which accepted me promptly.

I did fairly well in school and now I have an excellent job. But no matter how hard I try, my father lets me know I can't equal my brother. I don't think I'll ever be able to get away from this shadow he has cast over me. Print this, please. — SECOND BEST

DEAR FRIEND: Parents often make the mistake of holding one child up to another as a shining example, in the hope that it will serve as an incentive. Unfortunately, all it does is create hostility and problems. Each child should be accepted for what he is and no comparisons whatever should be made.

As for you, the best way to lose a shadow is to get out in the bright sunlight, and you can start right now by changing your signature to "DOING MY BEST."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Opposes Merger

NEW YORK (UPI)—Financier Allan P. Kirby said Monday he is out to block the proposed merger of the Missouri Pacific and the Texas & Pacific Railroads. Kirby charged that the proposed merger is in effect a recapitalization of the MOPAC that would greatly dilute the equity of Alleghany Corp., which Kirby controls, in the Missouri Pacific.

Awarded Contract

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Douglas Aircraft Company's Tulsa Division has been awarded a $500,000 contract by Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. to fabricate spacecraft fairings to protect the Gemini docking adapter during booster flight, it was announced Monday.

Three Fined For Shoplifting

Three persons were convicted of shoplifting yesterday in Frostburg Trial Magistrate Court and were fined and given suspended 30-day jail sentences.

Magistrate Edward Flanigan fined Mrs. Barbara Friend, of Deep Creek Lake, $50 and costs and suspended a 30-day jail sentence. She was also ordered to pay approximately $13 for merchandise she was accused of taking from the Miracle Mart, National Highway.

Fines of $20 each and suspended 30-day sentences were imposed on two Baltimore residents, also charged with shoplifting at the Miracle Mart.

The magistrate also ordered the pair, Mrs. Sylvia Arbogast, and Mrs. Daisy Long, both of Baltimore, to pay approximately $15 for the merchandise.

Magistrate Flanigan cautioned that the state law permits fines of up to $100 and prison terms of up to 18 months for shoplifters.

enough and Dartmouth did not accept me. My father made it plain I had let the whole family down. I was so despondent I considered suicide.

Our minister who had known me since childhood sensed my trouble. I credit him with saving my sanity and giving me the courage to go on. He suggested a small college in Indiana, which accepted me promptly.

I did fairly well in school and now I have an excellent job. But no matter how hard I try, my father lets me know I can't equal my brother. I don't think I'll ever be able to get away from this shadow he has cast over me. Print this, please. — SECOND BEST

DEAR FRIEND: Parents often make the mistake of holding one child up to another as a shining example, in the hope that it will serve as an incentive. Unfortunately, all it does is create hostility and problems. Each child should be accepted for what he is and no comparisons whatever should be made.

As for you, the best way to lose a shadow is to get out in the bright sunlight, and you can start right now by changing your signature to "DOING MY BEST."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Strong Winds Cause Drifting On Highways

SRC Crews Work To Clear Roads

High winds last night were causing snow drifts on highways in Garrett County and the western portion of Allegany County and the State Roads Commission had crews out to keep the roads passable.

Snow fell in both counties yesterday and Garrett County now has a total of six inches and light snow was still falling there last night.

The SRC said roads in Garrett County were covered but passable, but strong winds were blowing the snow and visability was fair to poor in some sections.

Some 19 men and 10 pieces of equipment were out in Garrett County at 9 p. m. last night plowing and applying abrasives. The temperature there was 20 degrees and it was expected to get even colder during the night.

From Frostburg west in Allegany County on U. S. Route 40 the high winds also were causing drifting in spots and four men and two pieces of equipment were working with plows and applying abrasives. Frostburg received three inches of new snow yesterday and there was some light snow blowing last night.

At 9 o'clock last night the mercury on Big Savage had dropped to 16 degrees and Frostburg reported 23 degrees.

The forecast for today calls for more snow flurries and the high is expected to be in the low 30s. Yesterday, the high reading in downtown Cumberland was 35 degrees.

State Police said last night the emergency snow plan which was imposed Sunday at 5:30 p. m. for Garrett County was still in effect last night because of the poor driving conditions.

Police also said there had been a few minor traffic tie-ups last night because of the bad road conditions.

In West Virginia, the State Road Commission advised motorists to use chains in a number of counties.

These included Randolph, Tucker and Pendleton. Randolph and Tucker counties had up to five inches of new snow yesterday, while Pendleton County had three inches.

Snow flurries also were predicted today in the mountain sections of West Virginia.

LaVale Sewage, Water Discussed

WVU Requests 14% Increase In Budget

President Miller Says $13.1 Million Is Bare Minimum

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — President Paul Miller of West Virginia University told the State Board of Public Works Monday that WVU's proposed 14 per cent increase in its 1964-65 budget was the bare minimum needed.

The WVU budget proposal totaled $13.1 million, or $1.8 million more than the current fiscal year. The total recommended to the BPW by Finance Commissioner Truman E. Gore was $11.48 million, or an increase only about $120,000.

Miller told the board—as it began hearings on budget requests of various state department's and agencies—that WVU enrollment is increasing 8 to 10 per cent a year while salaries are lagging 11 per cent below the national aerage.

Miller said the university's budget would have to increase by about 75 per cent over the next five years "if we are going to move toward becoming a very good university."

Gore's budget calls for no new money for any of the nine state colleges or Marshall University in their operating budgets.

However, WVU would get about $465,000 for surplus after June 30, $250 of which would be earmarked for its Center for Appalachian Studies and Development, $125,000 for land acquisition and $90,000 for insurance.

Marshall would get $150,000 for its University Heights Campus and $35,000 to correct fire hazards.

The state departments of health, tax, mental health and commerce, the Air Pollution Control Commission and the Educational Broadcasting Authority were among other agencies appearing Monday.

The State Board of Educaton, Human Rights Commission, departments of public institutions and motor vehicles and State Board of Probation and Parole will appear Tuesday as the BPW continues deliberations on a budget for submission to the Legislature in January.

Executive secretary Carl Bears II told the BPW the Air Pollution Commission vitally needs money for a laboratory and for a mobile sampling unit fully equipped.

The commission is recommended by Gore to receive $94,765 for 1964-65 compared to $33,380 this fiscal year.

Beard said the money would enable the commission to step up its monitoring program on air pollution in the upper Ohio River Valley and the Kanawha River Valley.

He showed BPW members color photographs showing examples of damage to paint finishes on houses attributed to heavy amounts of injurious chemicals in air samples, particularly in the Kanawha Valley.

Mental Health Director Mildred M. Bateman presented her department's plea for an additional $541,000 current expense money for all state mental institutions.

Mrs. Bateman noted that such allotments had been increased less than 10 per cent since 1957-58. She said the state spends only about 64 cents a day per patient for food, drugs, clothing and other necessities. The increase sought would boost that to 70 cents a day.

Granting Credit Is Costly Business, Study Indicates

Contrary to common opinion, stores do not make money by offering credit to their customers.

The statement was made by Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, and was based on a study of customer credit costs sponsored by the National Retail Merchants Association, of which the Downtown Cumberland Merchants Association is a member.

He said the study made the accounting firm of Touche, Ross, Bailey and Smart, showed stores are losing money on all three major types of retail credit accounts — regular 30-day accounts, revolving credit accounts and installment accounts. It showed, he said, that:

It costs department stores an average of 2.55 per cent of total credit sales to operate a credit department.

That stores do not make money on credit service charges as some proponents of credit legislation have claimed.

That the percentage of costs over revenue amounts to 3.76 per cent of credit sales on 30-day accounts, 1.31 per cent on revolving accounts and .05 per cent on conventional installment accounts.

In the study which covered 80 retail stores, costs of operating credit departments totaled $22,000,000 a year and the deficit of costs over service charges totaled $6,200,000 a year.

The deficit, the accountants reported, averaged out at 2.55 per cent of each credit sale.

Credit has sometimes been thought of as a profitable business for the retailer, the association said, adding:

"This has been due to the fact that department stores frequently organized their internal operating statements so total operating expenses were deducted from gross margin to arrive at an 'operating profit.' But included within these operating expenses were the costs incurred in extending credit services. Service charge revnue was then added to this 'operating profit' as if it were an independent, cost-free source of revenue. Often a superficial examination of this type of statement has led some to suggest that credit is profitable."

Retail credit, the study points out, is not a business venture. It is a selling tool.

City Water Supply Dips Slightly

Reserves Still Exceed 5 Months

Cumberland's water reserves dipped a little last week as the expected renewal of the water supply was deferred again.

On Sunday, after five weeks of curtailed consumption, the level of water in Lake Gordon was three feet, nine inches below the crest and Lake Koon was down 21 feet.

The loss occurred during a week when the ban on non-essential uses of water cut consumption to 9,725,700 gallons a day.

Consumption several years ago averaged about 13 million gallons a day but many water conservation plans have since been placed into effect, including the Pitometer survey which resulted in the closing of many leaks within the city, numerous repairs on the old 36-inch transmission line and the replacement of electric pumps for water-powered facilities at the filter plant.

In spite of the effects of the extended drought, which was eased somewhat by November rains, the city has an enviable supply of water left, since water in Lake Gordon is sufficient to meet all needs for 85 days and Lake Koon for another 78 days—based on the old average of 13 million gallons a day.

The situation could get worse, instead of better. Records show that Lake Koon dropped 38.5 feet below the spillway in February of 1954.

New School Aid Plan Will Go To Screening Unit

State Fire Code May Be Urged

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Legislative Council will hear reports Tuesday on proposals ranging from a big boost in school aid to the adoption of a state-wide fire code.

The Council, the between sessions study arm of the General Assembly, will hear from six of its committees.

Heading the list of proposals is a recommendation that the basis for state aid to schools be changed from teachers' salaries to pupil enrollment.

The change is backed by the Maryland State Teachers Association, which felt the new formula would provide for more equitable distribution of the funds.

The change-over is expected to add some $16.2 million to the state budget.

A committee which studied the State Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund is reportedly ready to suggest six-month noncancellable car insurance policies.

If adopted by the Legislature at February's session the proposal would forbid policy cancellation for nonpayment of premiums, but allow cancellation for other reasons.

Another committee will reportedly ask the Council to back adoption of a Maryland-wide fire code. None exists.

Still another anticipated recommendation is that the General Assembly revise the criminal statute dealing with guards who assist in jail breaks.

Hunters Fined At Flintstone For Violation

Magistrate Russell V. Nierman of Flintstone last night held hearings for a number of hunters who were arrested during the first few days of deer hunting season.

Robert C. Myers, Williamsport, pleaded guilty to hunting deer without the proper license stamp and was fined $22.50 by Magistrate Nierman.

In another case, George G. Humbertson, Spring Gap, was fined $20 for having a loaded shotgun in a motor vehicle.

Magistrate Nierman said there also were a number of hunters who failed to appear for trials last night and all forfeited the collaterals which they had posted after being arrested. These included:

Larry R. Martin, Orlando, Fla., $52.50 for making false statements to obtain a resident hunting license.

John Delida, Washington, $52.50, for hunting with an improper license.

Thomas J. Walterhoefer, Glen Burnie, $102.50, attempting to kill a second deer.

William R. Shanaberger, Mt. Airy, $22.50, hunting with an improper license.

Frank W. Panzer, Perry Hall, Md., $22.50, having a loaded rifle in a motor vehicle.

City Takes In 80% Of Year's Levy

Spending Lags By Two Points

The finances of the City of Cumberland appeared in good shape as the fifth month of the fiscal year ended November 30 with 80 per cent of the year's levy collected and with 88 per cent of the tax levy received.

And spending, according to a report on the Condition of the Levy, prepared by City Comptroller Paul E. Rodecap for the scrutiny of department heads, was running about two points below par.

The report showed that since July 1, the city collected $1,649,266.99, or 80 per cent of the year's all-time high levy of $2,050,930.

This leaves $401,663.01 to be collected during the remaining seven months of the fiscal year.

Tax collections during the period totaled $1,194,861.39, or 88 per cent of the $1,357,600 tax levy. This leaves $162,738.61 to be collected.

There is every reason to believe that the levy will be met as most of the uncollected funds are represented by sources which traditionally meet or exceed levy estimates.

More than a third of the uncollected funds are represented by the so-called Sherbow funds—taxes collected by the state and shared by subdivisions in lieu of taxing powers.

The Sherbow funds can be a bit tricky, however, as they do not always come in as fast as expected.

For example, the city's receipts from the State Auto License Fees account already total $33,982, which is $1,982 more than was levied. The extra funds represent money which was expected, but failed to arrive, during the last fiscal year.

During the first five months, the city departments spent $711,842.57 for services to citizens. This represents 39.9 per cent of the $1,783,948.50 appropriations budget and is about two points below par.

Some $1,072,105.93 is left to finance city operations during the final seven months. Most departments are operating within their budgets. The exceptions appear to be Recreation, which has $15,432.64 left from a $45,000 budget, and Urban Renewal, which has $3,824.95 remaining from a $12,000 budget.

DARLENE ELLIOTT

Will Cite Uses Of Gas

"Yes, we have some bananas—ripened with natural gas."

That's what members of the Cumberland Lions Club will be told at their Wednesday luncheon meeting at Central YMCA.

Miss Darlene Elliott, public relations representative for Columbia Gas of Maryland, will tell the Lions about the trend in modern industry to use gas for selective and special purposes.

"There are valuable properties of natural gas far beyond its basis uses for heat. A unique for-instance is the natural-gas burning atmosphere generator which automatically keeps apples for a full year . . . delays the blossoming of the rose bud and saves millions in spoilage costs for the fruit and vegetable industry . . ."

Marriages In Court Due In January

Clerk To Have Power To Officiate

Beginning January 2, Joseph E. Boden, chief clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, will have the authority to perform marriage ceremonies in the Court House.

During the last session of the Maryland Legislature the marriage bill was passed which will permit clerks of the court to join couples in matrimony.

However, the fee for these court house marriages—$3 for the license and $10 for the ceremony—may keep many young couples from taking advantage of these quick unions.

The form of the ceremony will be very brief and is patterned after those used by other states. Maryland is the last state in the union to pass a law permitting civil marriages. At the present time Maryland marriages must be performed by a minister, priest or rabbi.

Out of the $10 payment for a civil marriage here, $8 will go to the county and $2 will go to the state.

Allegany County long has been popular for persons from other states who are planning to get married. Many of the applicants for marriage licenses here are residents of West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and come here to be married because of various reasons.

The age of consent is still unchanged. The bride must be 18 and the groom 21. If either is younger, he or she must have parents' approval or a physician's certificate of pregnancy. The state does not require a blood test which is one of the reasons Maryland is popular with non-residents.

Mr. Boden said the new law is not popular with court clerks throughout the state and they are hoping this new law may be repealed. He said, however, he would be available to perform these ceremonies and if the couple desire privacy the ceremony would be held on the second floor of the Court House.

City Issues Permit For Business Unit

Permits for the construction of a commercial and an apartment building with a total value of $70,000 have been issued by the City of Cumberland.

The Tri-State Realty Company, of Bunker Hill, Pittsburgh, secured the permit for a commercial building from 130-138 North Mechanic Street.

The plans call for building a 40 by 100-foot, two-story addition, of concrete block and brick construction, beginning at 130 North Mechanic Street, and to renovate quarters at 136 and 138 North Mechanic Street which were damaged by fire some months ago.

City officials were told the building will be occupied by a television and radio parts firm.

A permit was issued to C. E. Burgess, 635 Washington Street, for a six-unit apartment house in the 600 block of Washington Street.

The structure, to be about 81 by 27 feet and of brick veneer construction, will be built on Lots 48-51 which front 195 feet on Washington Street.

Cost of the structure is estimated at $40,000. Adequate off-street parking for all tenants will be provided.

Mike Burgess, Inc., is the contractor for the project which is already under way.

High Court Affirms Cobey

The Maryland Court of Appeals has refused to reverse a ruling made here last summer by Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey who denied a petition for a new trial for a former local man, who is serving a life sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary.

The prisoner, Victor Calvin Whitacre, who was sentenced here in 1954 after being found guilty of statutory rape, had asked the state high court to set aside Judge Cobey's decision.

At the hearing here last summer, Whitaker claimed he was deprived of his constitutional rights at his original trial.

Widows Of Vets Urged To Check On Pensions

It is no longer true that widows of veterans of World War II and the Korean War are not elgible for pensions on the same basis as World War I widows.

Prior to July 1, 1960, widows of veterans of the two wars were eligible for pension only if the veteran had a definitely ascertained service-connected disability at the time of his death. No such requirement existed for World War I widows.

Since that date the eligibility of widows of all three periods of military service has been equalized. Briefly the pension requirement now are:

(a) The deceased veteran-husband must have had at least 90 days of service, part during war time, unless discharged sooner for service-connected disability, or he was receiving or was entitled to receive compensation or retirement pay for a war time service-connected disability, and in all cases, had been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

(b) The widow's income is not more than $1,800 annually (or, with a child or children of the veteran, not more than $3,000 annually) and she is not the possessor of an estate so large that it is reasonable to look to that estate for support.

Widows of World War II or the Korean conflict who applied for pensions prior to July 1, 1960, and were found ineligible should apply under the new law, VA officials say, if they believe their income may be within prescribed limits.

The boys and their parents met with police officials in Police Headquarters last night.

Army Announces Leave Policy For Holidays

Sgt. Joseph A. Celich, local Army recruiter, said yesterday that personnel enlisting in the regular Army from December 9 to January 1 may be granted leave upon request not to exceed 15 days. All leaves granted will terminate to provide for the enlistee to arrive at the Army reception center by 5 p.m. on January 2.

Enlistment of WAC personnel during December will be conducted during the period December 27-31. Women enlisted will be processed to insure arrival at WAC Center not later than midnight January 3.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Sgt. Celich, Room 312, Post Office Building.

Truck Damaged By Short Circuit

Central Fire Department was called to Knox and Centre streets yesterday at 8:31 a. m. after a Cumberland Brewing Company truck operated by Gilbert Kerns caught fire.

Firemen said the blaze, probably resulting from a short circuit, resulted in total loss of all wiring and insulation under the hood.

East Side Fire Company was called to 221 Baltimore Avenue yesterday at 12:31 a. m. after a short circuit developed in a receptacle in the kitchen of the home.

Firemen To Meet

The Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company will hold a special meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. to discuss the weekly benefit party held on Friday nights at the fire hall.

State Board Defers Action

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland Board of Public Works turned thumbs down Monday on a Tidewater Fisheries Commission plan to sell seed oysters to the Potomac River Fisheries Commission for 90 cents a bushel.

The rejection came after the board was told the seed oysters could bring $1.25 a bushel if sold to private planters.

The public works board took no action on a proposal to open Western Maryland forest lands to private exploration for gas and oil. It decided to continue study of the subject, which has been under consideration for two years.

RC Welfare Aides To Get Certificates

Three volunteers will receive Red Cross certificates and pins at a meeting of the Social Welfare Aide Group of Allegany County Chapter, Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. in Room 326, Post Office Building.

Flue Fire Checked On Waverly Terrace

Firemen from East Side station last night extinguished a flue fire at 318 Waverly Terrace.

In the call at 6:04 p. m. the firemen had to use axes to chop to the source of the fire which originated in the flue and ate its way to the outside of the frame dwelling. They were on the scene about two hours.

State Hospital Costs Higher

BALTIMORE (AP)—Hospital costs in Maryland increased by 4.25 per cent last year, the Hospital Cost Analysis Service reported Monday.

The report by the study group said average costs for a patient in a general hospital rose to $35.04 per day, but costs varied according to the size of the hospital.

Average costs for bed patients in hospitals with less than 100 beds was $29.30 per day, compared with $38.10 per day in hospitals with 300 or more beds, the report showed.

The average stay in a general hospital last year was 8.10 days, a small increase from previous years, the service said.

Farm Bureau Opens Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Appel of Oldtown are representing Allegan County at the 45th annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation which started Sunday in Chicago and continues through Thursday.

Garrett County is represented by Robert Glotfelty of Accident. The Washington County representatives are Henry Barnhart of Hancock and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Meyers of Sharpsburg.

Strong Winds Cause Drifting On Highways

SRC Crews Work To Clear Roads

High winds last night were causing snow drifts on highways in Garrett County and the western portion of Allegany County and the State Roads Commission had crews out to keep the roads passable.

Snow fell in both counties yesterday and Garrett County now has a total of six inches and light snow was still falling there last night.

The SRC said roads in Garrett County were covered but passable, but strong winds were blowing the snow and visability was fair to poor in some sections.

Some 19 men and 10 pieces of equipment were out in Garrett County at 9 p. m. last night plowing and applying abrasives. The temperature there was 20 degrees and it was expected to get even colder during the night.

From Frostburg west in Allegany County on U. S. Route 40 the high winds also were causing drifting in spots and four men and two pieces of equipment were working with plows and applying abrasives. Frostburg received three inches of new snow yesterday and there was some light snow blowing last night.

At 9 o'clock last night the mercury on Big Savage had dropped to 16 degrees and Frostburg reported 23 degrees.

The forecast for today calls for more snow flurries and the high is expected to be in the low 30s. Yesterday, the high reading in downtown Cumberland was 35 degrees.

State Police said last night the emergency snow plan which was imposed Sunday at 5:30 p. m. for Garrett County was still in effect last night because of the poor driving conditions.

Police also said there had been a few minor traffic tie-ups last night because of the bad road conditions.

In West Virginia, the State Road Commission advised motorists to use chains in a number of counties.

These included Randolph, Tucker and Pendleton. Randolph and Tucker counties had up to five inches of new snow yesterday, while Pendleton County had three inches.

Snow flurries also were predicted today in the mountain sections of West Virginia.

LaVale Sewage, Water Discussed

WVU Requests 14% Increase In Budget

President Miller Says $13.1 Million Is Bare Minimum

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — President Paul Miller of West Virginia University told the State Board of Public Works Monday that WVU's proposed 14 per cent increase in its 1964-65 budget was the bare minimum needed.

The WVU budget proposal totaled $13.1 million, or $1.8 million more than the current fiscal year. The total recommended to the BPW by Finance Commissioner Truman E. Gore was $11.48 million, or an increase only about $120,000.

Miller told the board—as it began hearings on budget requests of various state department's and agencies—that WVU enrollment is increasing 8 to 10 per cent a year while salaries are lagging 11 per cent below the national aerage.

Miller said the university's budget would have to increase by about 75 per cent over the next five years "if we are going to move toward becoming a very good university."

Gore's budget calls for no new money for any of the nine state colleges or Marshall University in their operating budgets.

However, WVU would get about $465,000 for surplus after June 30, $250 of which would be earmarked for its Center for Appalachian Studies and Development, $125,000 for land acquisition and $90,000 for insurance.

Marshall would get $150,000 for its University Heights Campus and $35,000 to correct fire hazards.

The state departments of health, tax, mental health and commerce, the Air Pollution Control Commission and the Educational Broadcasting Authority were among other agencies appearing Monday.

The State Board of Educaton, Human Rights Commission, departments of public institutions and motor vehicles and State Board of Probation and Parole will appear Tuesday as the BPW continues deliberations on a budget for submission to the Legislature in January.

Executive secretary Carl Bears II told the BPW the Air Pollution Commission vitally needs money for a laboratory and for a mobile sampling unit fully equipped.

The commission is recommended by Gore to receive $94,765 for 1964-65 compared to $33,380 this fiscal year.

Beard said the money would enable the commission to step up its monitoring program on air pollution in the upper Ohio River Valley and the Kanawha River Valley.

He showed BPW members color photographs showing examples of damage to paint finishes on houses attributed to heavy amounts of injurious chemicals in air samples, particularly in the Kanawha Valley.

Mental Health Director Mildred M. Bateman presented her department's plea for an additional $541,000 current expense money for all state mental institutions.

Mrs. Bateman noted that such allotments had been increased less than 10 per cent since 1957-58. She said the state spends only about 64 cents a day per patient for food, drugs, clothing and other necessities. The increase sought would boost that to 70 cents a day.

Granting Credit Is Costly Business, Study Indicates

Contrary to common opinion, stores do not make money by offering credit to their customers.

The statement was made by Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, and was based on a study of customer credit costs sponsored by the National Retail Merchants Association, of which the Downtown Cumberland Merchants Association is a member.

He said the study made the accounting firm of Touche, Ross, Bailey and Smart, showed stores are losing money on all three major types of retail credit accounts — regular 30-day accounts, revolving credit accounts and installment accounts. It showed, he said, that:

It costs department stores an average of 2.55 per cent of total credit sales to operate a credit department.

That stores do not make money on credit service charges as some proponents of credit legislation have claimed.

That the percentage of costs over revenue amounts to 3.76 per cent of credit sales on 30-day accounts, 1.31 per cent on revolving accounts and .05 per cent on conventional installment accounts.

In the study which covered 80 retail stores, costs of operating credit departments totaled $22,000,000 a year and the deficit of costs over service charges totaled $6,200,000 a year.

The deficit, the accountants reported, averaged out at 2.55 per cent of each credit sale.

Credit has sometimes been thought of as a profitable business for the retailer, the association said, adding:

"This has been due to the fact that department stores frequently organized their internal operating statements so total operating expenses were deducted from gross margin to arrive at an 'operating profit.' But included within these operating expenses were the costs incurred in extending credit services. Service charge revnue was then added to this 'operating profit' as if it were an independent, cost-free source of revenue. Often a superficial examination of this type of statement has led some to suggest that credit is profitable."

Retail credit, the study points out, is not a business venture. It is a selling tool.

City Water Supply Dips Slightly

Reserves Still Exceed 5 Months

Cumberland's water reserves dipped a little last week as the expected renewal of the water supply was deferred again.

On Sunday, after five weeks of curtailed consumption, the level of water in Lake Gordon was three feet, nine inches below the crest and Lake Koon was down 21 feet.

The loss occurred during a week when the ban on non-essential uses of water cut consumption to 9,725,700 gallons a day.

Consumption several years ago averaged about 13 million gallons a day but many water conservation plans have since been placed into effect, including the Pitometer survey which resulted in the closing of many leaks within the city, numerous repairs on the old 36-inch transmission line and the replacement of electric pumps for water-powered facilities at the filter plant.

In spite of the effects of the extended drought, which was eased somewhat by November rains, the city has an enviable supply of water left, since water in Lake Gordon is sufficient to meet all needs for 85 days and Lake Koon for another 78 days—based on the old average of 13 million gallons a day.

The situation could get worse, instead of better. Records show that Lake Koon dropped 38.5 feet below the spillway in February of 1954.

New School Aid Plan Will Go To Screening Unit

State Fire Code May Be Urged

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Legislative Council will hear reports Tuesday on proposals ranging from a big boost in school aid to the adoption of a state-wide fire code.

The Council, the between sessions study arm of the General Assembly, will hear from six of its committees.

Heading the list of proposals is a recommendation that the basis for state aid to schools be changed from teachers' salaries to pupil enrollment.

The change is backed by the Maryland State Teachers Association, which felt the new formula would provide for more equitable distribution of the funds.

The change-over is expected to add some $16.2 million to the state budget.

A committee which studied the State Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund is reportedly ready to suggest six-month noncancellable car insurance policies.

If adopted by the Legislature at February's session the proposal would forbid policy cancellation for nonpayment of premiums, but allow cancellation for other reasons.

Another committee will reportedly ask the Council to back adoption of a Maryland-wide fire code. None exists.

Still another anticipated recommendation is that the General Assembly revise the criminal statute dealing with guards who assist in jail breaks.

Hunters Fined At Flintstone For Violation

Magistrate Russell V. Nierman of Flintstone last night held hearings for a number of hunters who were arrested during the first few days of deer hunting season.

Robert C. Myers, Williamsport, pleaded guilty to hunting deer without the proper license stamp and was fined $22.50 by Magistrate Nierman.

In another case, George G. Humbertson, Spring Gap, was fined $20 for having a loaded shotgun in a motor vehicle.

Magistrate Nierman said there also were a number of hunters who failed to appear for trials last night and all forfeited the collaterals which they had posted after being arrested. These included:

Larry R. Martin, Orlando, Fla., $52.50 for making false statements to obtain a resident hunting license.

John Delida, Washington, $52.50, for hunting with an improper license.

Thomas J. Walterhoefer, Glen Burnie, $102.50, attempting to kill a second deer.

William R. Shanaberger, Mt. Airy, $22.50, hunting with an improper license.

Frank W. Panzer, Perry Hall, Md., $22.50, having a loaded rifle in a motor vehicle.

City Takes In 80% Of Year's Levy

Spending Lags By Two Points

The finances of the City of Cumberland appeared in good shape as the fifth month of the fiscal year ended November 30 with 80 per cent of the year's levy collected and with 88 per cent of the tax levy received.

And spending, according to a report on the Condition of the Levy, prepared by City Comptroller Paul E. Rodecap for the scrutiny of department heads, was running about two points below par.

The report showed that since July 1, the city collected $1,649,266.99, or 80 per cent of the year's all-time high levy of $2,050,930.

This leaves $401,663.01 to be collected during the remaining seven months of the fiscal year.

Tax collections during the period totaled $1,194,861.39, or 88 per cent of the $1,357,600 tax levy. This leaves $162,738.61 to be collected.

There is every reason to believe that the levy will be met as most of the uncollected funds are represented by sources which traditionally meet or exceed levy estimates.

More than a third of the uncollected funds are represented by the so-called Sherbow funds—taxes collected by the state and shared by subdivisions in lieu of taxing powers.

The Sherbow funds can be a bit tricky, however, as they do not always come in as fast as expected.

For example, the city's receipts from the State Auto License Fees account already total $33,982, which is $1,982 more than was levied. The extra funds represent money which was expected, but failed to arrive, during the last fiscal year.

During the first five months, the city departments spent $711,842.57 for services to citizens. This represents 39.9 per cent of the $1,783,948.50 appropriations budget and is about two points below par.

Some $1,072,105.93 is left to finance city operations during the final seven months. Most departments are operating within their budgets. The exceptions appear to be Recreation, which has $15,432.64 left from a $45,000 budget, and Urban Renewal, which has $3,824.95 remaining from a $12,000 budget.

State Hospital Costs Higher

BALTIMORE (AP)—Hospital costs in Maryland increased by 4.25 per cent last year, the Hospital Cost Analysis Service reported Monday.

The report by the study group said average costs for a patient in a general hospital rose to $35.04 per day, but costs varied according to the size of the hospital.

Average costs for bed patients in hospitals with less than 100 beds was $29.30 per day, compared with $38.10 per day in hospitals with 300 or more beds, the report showed.

The average stay in a general hospital last year was 8.10 days, a small increase from previous years, the service said.

DARLENE ELLIOTT

Will Cite Uses Of Gas

"Yes, we have some bananas—ripened with natural gas."

That's what members of the Cumberland Lions Club will be told at their Wednesday luncheon meeting at Central YMCA.

Miss Darlene Elliott, public relations representative for Columbia Gas of Maryland, will tell the Lions about the trend in modern industry to use gas for selective and special purposes.

"There are valuable properties of natural gas far beyond its basis uses for heat. A unique forinstance is the natural-gas burning atmosphere generator which automatically keeps apples for a full year . . . delays the blossoming of the rose bud and saves millions in spoilage costs for the fruit and vegetable industry . . ."

City Issues Permit For Business Unit

Permits for the construction of a commercial and an apartment building with a total value of $70,000 have been issued by the City of Cumberland.

The Tri-State Realty Company, of Bunker Hill, Pittsburgh, secured the permit for a commercial building from 130-138 North Mechanic Street.

The plans call for building a 40 by 100-foot, two-story addition, of concrete block and brick construction, beginning at 130 North Mechanic Street, and to renovate quarters at 136 and 138 North Mechanic Street which were damaged by fire some months ago.

City officials were told the building will be occupied by a television and radio parts firm.

A permit was issued to C. E. Burgess, 635 Washington Street, for a six-unit apartment house in the 600 block of Washington Street.

The structure, to be about 81 by 27 feet and of brick veneer construction, will be built on Lots 48-51 which front 195 feet on Washington Street.

Cost of the structure is estimated at $40,000. Adequate off-street parking for all tenants will be provided.

Mike Burgess, Inc., is the contractor for the project which is already under way.

Marriages In Court Due In January

Clerk To Have Power To Officiate

Beginning January 2, Joseph E. Boden, chief clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, will have the authority to perform marriage ceremonies in the Court House.

During the last session of the Maryland Legislature the marriage bill was passed which will permit clerks of the court to join couples in matrimony.

However, the fee for these court house marriages—$3 for the license and $10 for the ceremony—may keep many young couples from taking advantage of these quick unions.

The form of the ceremony will be very brief and is patterned after those used by other states. Maryland is the last state in the union to pass a law permitting civil marriages. At the present time Maryland marriages must be performed by a minister, priest or rabbi.

Out of the $10 payment for a civil marriage here, $8 will go to the county and $2 will go to the state.

Allegany County long has been popular for persons from other states who are planning to get married. Many of the applicants for marriage licenses here are residents of West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and come here to be married because of various reasons.

The age of consent is still unchanged. The bride must be 18 and the groom 21. If either is younger, he or she must have parents' approval or a physician's certificate of pregnancy. The state does not require a blood test which is one of the reasons Maryland is popular with non-residents.

Mr. Boden said the new law is not popular with court clerks throughout the state and they are hoping this new law may be repealed. He said, however, he would be available to perform these ceremonies and if the couple desire privacy the ceremony would be held on the second floor of the Court House.

High Court Affirms Cobey

The Maryland Court of Appeals has refused to reverse a ruling made here last summer by Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey who denied a petition for a new trial for a former local man, who is serving a life sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary.

The prisoner, Victor Calvin Whitacre, who was sentenced here in 1954 after being found guilty of statutory rape, had asked the state high court to set aside Judge Cobey's decision.

At the hearing here last summer, Whitaker claimed he was deprived of his constitutional rights at his original trial.

Whitaker originally was sentenced to the life term by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Another Court Test Looms In Sunday Law

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—Another court test of West Virginia's Sunday closing law may result from a new series of arrests by Wheeling police Sunday.

Twenty-eight persons were arrested at two discount houses and posted $100 bonds for a hearing Friday. The cases are expected to be turned over to the grand jury.

An attorney representing one of the discount stores said a new effort will be made to challenge the validity of the law following Friday's hearings. The raids were the second in as many weeks by local police.

Widows Of Vets Urged To Check On Pensions

It is no longer true that widows of veterans of World War II and the Korean War are not elgible for pensions on the same basis as World War I widows.

Prior to July 1, 1960, widows of veterans of the two wars were eligible for pension only if the veteran had a definitely ascertained service-connected disability at the time of his death. No such requirement existed for World War I widows.

Since that date the eligibility of widows of all three periods of military service has been equalized. Briefly the pension requirement now are:

(a) The deceased veteran-husband must have had at least 90 days of service, part during war time, unless discharged sooner for service-connected disability, or he was receiving or was entitled to receive compensation or retirement pay for a war time service-connected disability, and in all cases, had been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

(b) The widow's income is not more than $1,800 annually (or, with a child or children of the veteran, not more than $3,000 annually) and she is not the possessor of an estate so large that it is reasonable to look to that estate for support.

Widows of World War II or the Korean conflict who applied for pensions prior to July 1, 1960, and were found ineligible should apply under the new law, VA officials say, if they believe their income may be within prescribed limits.

State Board Defers Action

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland Board of Public Works turned thumbs down Monday on a Tidewater Fisheries Commission plan to sell seed oysters to the Potomac River Fisheries Commission for 90 cents a bushel.

The rejection came after the board was told the seed oysters could bring $1.25 a bushel if sold to private planters.

The public works board took no action on a proposal to open Western Maryland forest lands to private exploration for gas and oil. It decided to continue study of the subject, which has been under consideration for two years.

RC Welfare Aides To Get Certificates

Three volunteers will receive Red Cross certificates and pins at a meeting of the Social Welfare Aide Group of Allegany County Chapter, Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. in Room 326, Post Office Building.
